Sponsor Knew Quiz Show Rigged, Producer Testifies

Cugat Says He Was Coached On 'Challenge'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The man who screened contestants testified Tuesday the original big money quiz show on TV, the "$64,000 Question," was rigged and that the sponsoring Revlon Co. knew it.

The "$64,000 Question," the "$64,000 Challenge," both on CBS, and "The Big Surprise" on NBC, all were described by associate producer Mert Koplin of New York as controlled quiz shows.

He said he screened contestants or gave answers to them in advance. Koplin had been named by rhumba king Xavier Cugat as having coached him to $16,000 in winnings on the "Challenge" last year.

Both appeared before a House Commerce subcommittee which is digging into the fixing scandal that exploded around TV quiz shows and blew many of them out of existence.

The executive producer of the two $64,000 shows, Steven R. Carlin of New York, supported Koplin's testimony. He testified that he agreed with what Koplin said about the techniques and degree of control over quiz shows.

Cugat Told Truth To Jury

Cugat was the big name Tuesday. He said he didn't give all the facts about his appearance on the program to the New York district attorney's office. But he said he did tell the truth about it later to a grand jury.

The nattily dressed, 58-year-old orchestra leader who said he is in the 76 per cent income bracket was merely one of numerous former contestants who have testified to program frauds.

Koplin was the first from the production end to bring the rigging story into the open—although he preferred to call it controlling. And he was the first to put a finger on a sponsor as knowing what was going on.

With reference to the "$64,000 Question" and Revlon, a cosmetics firm, Richard N. Goodwin of the subcommittee staff asked Koplin: "The sponsor was fully aware the program was being controlled by the producer?"

"It is my opinion that is a fair statement, yes," Koplin replied.

Government, USW Debate T-H Legality

Union Says Strike Has Not Imperiled Nation's Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court listened Tuesday as government and steel union lawyers debated the legality of a back-to-work order. Then it began pondering a decision that will influence the course of the historic steel strike and the future of the Taft-Hartley law.

There was no indication when the high court may hand down its decision, but it was not expected to delay long with the steel mill shutdown 112 days old.

The justices discussed the case behind closed doors for nearly three hours. Then a court aide told newsmen there would be no announcement Tuesday night. He gave no sign when the court may act.

Fighting the back-to-work order issued by a lower court, union counsel Arthur J. Goldberg said that in enacting the Taft-Hartley law Congress "passed the buck to the Supreme Court to break strikes."

Solicitor General Replies

Replying for the government, Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin said that in passing the law, with its strike-ending emergency machinery, Congress sought to protect the interest of all the nation rather than either labor or management.

Their arguments took more than four hours.

All nine justices, in their black robes, were seated behind their long bench to hear the United Steelworkers Union appeal from a U.S. District Court injunction that would send 500,000 strikers back to the steel mills at least for 80 days.

No Emergency, USW Claims

That order was issued two weeks ago by Judge Herbert Sorg in Pittsburgh, and upheld by an appeals court in Philadelphia last week. But the injunction will not go into effect at least until the Supreme Court rules on the union's appeal.

Goldberg contended there is no national emergency to warrant such drastic action, that there is no threat to national health and safety within the meaning of the law, that Judge Sorg went too far, that the injunction section of the Taft-Hartley law is unconstitutional because it gives too much power to the courts.

Rankin disputed him on every point, and the justices peppered both lawyers with questions.

Dilworth Wins; Demo Leads Ky. Governor Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Democrat Bert T. Combs, once a $200 a month clerk in the state Highway Department, Tuesday was elected governor of Kentucky by a margin that may reach record-breaking proportions.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats grabbed an apparently unbeatable lead Tuesday night in the Kentucky gubernatorial battle and administered a likely "kiss of death" to the political aspirations of Republican Harold E. Stassen.

Democrat Bert T. Combs built up a 74,000-vote lead over Republican John M. Robison Jr. with nearly half the precincts counted in Kentucky.

Stassen, one-time "boy wonder" of GOP politics, was soundly trounced in his bid to upset incumbent Democrat Richardson Dilworth in the race for mayor of Philadelphia. Dilworth scored 134,000-vote landslide win.

Stassen, a former governor of Minnesota and former adviser to President Eisenhower, lost a try for Pennsylvania's governorship last year and for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948 and 1952.

In other scattered off-year elections that may provide some grass-roots clue to the trend in next year's presidential balloting, Democrats rode rough-shod over the GOP in retaining control of mayor's offices in Indiana. Indianapolis, South Bend, and Muncie, were among cities remaining in the Democratic column.

Mississippi elected Democrat Ross Barnett, who had no GOP opposition, as governor.

In Boston, John E. Powers, president of the state senate, was defeated in an upset by John F. Collins, Suffolk County register of probate, in the race for mayor. Both were Democrats. The losing candidate had been endorsed by Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), a contender for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

A central figure in the Kentucky gubernatorial battle was outgoing Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who was ineligible to succeed himself. After Chandler's choice for governor was defeated in the Democratic primary, he refused to back Combs, who was endorsed by Chandler's political rival, former Sen. Earle C. Clements.

Crowds Fight Canal Police, Tear Up Flag

Demonstrators Are Driven Back At Bayonet Point

PANAMA (AP) — American Army riflemen with bayonets bristling took command at the Panama Canal Zone border Tuesday after anti-U.S. Panamanians tore up an American Embassy flag, fought for hours with U.S. canal police and damaged American property.

It was a celebration of Panama's independence day that got destructively out of hand in a frenzy of anti-U.S. manifestations similar in tone to the current vocal outbursts in Cuba.

The United States quickly made a formal protest to the Panama government.

The government had known in advance of demonstrations in the making on the day celebrating Panama's liberation from Colombia 56 years ago.

Perennial Target

The United States has a unique hold on the Canal Zone bisecting the Republic of Panama—a lease in perpetuity—and it is a perennial target of Panamanian nationalists and other agitators.

The demonstrators attacked U. S. policemen at the boundary of the Canal Zone in an open challenge to American sovereignty over the waterway.

A crowd attacked the embassy, pulled down the American flag in front of the building, and tore it up. They hoisted the Panamanian flag on the pole and carried away the remnants of the U.S. flag.

Flying rocks smashed embassy windows.

Panamanian National Guardsmen finally dispersed the throng.

Canal Zone Gov. William E. Potter had the Army take over the border area after civilian police and firemen of the Canal Zone had fought for hours with demonstrators bent on carrying the Panamanian flag into the Canal Zone.

Infiltrators Driven Back

Troops took positions along Fourth of July Avenue, the boundary between this capital and the Canal Zone.

The soldiers set up automatic weapons on tripods at another border area where demonstrators had clashed with police since 11:30 a.m. About 150 demonstrators had infiltrated the Canal Zone carrying a large Panamanian flag. They were driven back to the Panama side at bayonet point.

Anti-U.S. disorders were also reported on the Atlantic side of the Canal Zone—across the Isthmus of Panama from Panama City-in the area bordering on the Panamanian city of Colon.

Rocket Fuel "Mixer" Killed By Explosion

ORDILL, Ill. (UPI)—A rocket propellent mixture explosion blasted apart a research laboratory at the Olin Mathieson Co. chemical plant Tuesday and killed the supervisor of a "top secret" mixing operation.

Nine other workers in a control room 300 feet from the mixing shed escaped injury, but policemen equipped with Geiger counters had to search for hours before finding a radioactive capsule enclosed in a lead box which had been in the laboratory.

Company officials refused to reveal the nature or purpose of the capsule for security reasons.

The dead man was identified as Robert R. Gravatt, 38, section chief of the firm's solid propellant fuel plant.

He was supervising mixture of 2,000 pounds of fuel for what was reported to be one of the nation's "top secret rockets" when the explosion destroyed the shed and smashed windows in a city 12 miles away.

A co-worker in the control room separated from the mixing shed by a long corridor, said that if the blast had occurred 15 minutes later three other men would have been in the shed with Gravatt.

The worker, who asked not to be identified because of security reasons, said Gravatt was watching the mixing operations and was in contact with the control room by telephone.

Gravatt's co-workers said the explosion might have been caused by friction in the fuel-making machine, according to Coroner Adolph Fluck.

Three Airmen Die In Collision Of Two AF Jets

BINGHAM, Maine (AP) — Two Air Force jets collided Tuesday night and crashed in a wilderness area about 10 miles northwest of here. The Air Force said three men were killed.

The planes, an F102 fighter and a T33 trainer, were from Ethan Allen Air Force Base, Burlington, Vt.

Two men were aboard the trainer, and one was in the F102. The wreckage has not been sighted, but a search party of state police and game wardens started for the general area.

Eisenhower Plans Europe-Asia Tour

May Visit Italy, India, Turkey, Pakistan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower plans a flying visit to Italy and India and probably to Turkey and Pakistan early next month in advance of the Western summit conference, authoritative sources said Tuesday.

These sources said the President also may visit one or two other Middle East nations. They emphasized that the President's itinerary, expected to be announced by the White House in the next day or so, still was subjected to change.

According to present plans, however, the President hopes to fly to Rome Dec. 4 for a two-day visit and talks with Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and Premier Antonio Segni before the Western summit meeting in Paris Dec. 19.

Vatican City sources said in Rome that the President was almost certain to see Pope John XXIII during his Italian visit. It would be the first meeting in history between an incumbent American president and a reigning pontiff.

A presidential visit would be regarded in Rome as lending support to Italy's demand for a bigger voice in Western councils. It also would be a courtesy call on a nation regarded by the President as a valuable ally in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Ike Casts Pa. Ballot

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower voted in his adopted home township Tuesday with high hopes that other Pennsylvania country folk would join him in support of Republican candidates.

Three Eisenhower ballots were cast at Barlow Firemen's Hall in Cumberland Township, a rural area five miles outside Gettysburg and just about that far from the President's farm home.

The President marked his ballot during a two-minute stay inside a booth. His son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and John's wife, Barbara, voted at the same time.

H. Earl Pitzer, Adams County Republican chairman, greeted Eisenhower with word that the President's appearance meant "a lot to the party and the people of the county."

Eisenhower replied, Pitzer said, that he was happy to be here "and hoped the people would vote as well this year for the party as they did last year." Republicans scored some gains in the area at that time.

A contest for district attorney and the county commissioners had stirred up the only special interest. Some lesser offices were on the ballot too.

Ike Lays CIA Cornerstone; Lauds Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) —With a silver trowel, President Eisenhower Tuesday helped lay the cornerstone of the Central Intelligence Agency's new 46 million dollar building.

Eisenhower, speaking in bright sunshine to a crowd of some 3,000, expressed appreciation to the CIA's agents for their efforts. Their work, he said, requires dedication and courage and their heroes are "undecorated and unsung, often even among their own fraternity."

The new CIA home is being built at Langley, Va., a couple of miles outside Washington. It will provide a central location for the thousands of CIA employes now scattered in 22 separate buildings here. The structure is due to be completed by August 1961.

Into the building CIA agents scattered around the world will funnel information to be assessed. A large part of it is aimed at keeping tabs on the Soviet Union's activities and intentions.

How many people will work in the new building the CIA would not disclose under its close-mouthed mode of operation. All a spokesman would say is that the building will have one million square feet of space plus another 600,000 square feet of corridors.

At the cornerstone laying, Eisenhower was aided by CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and Robert Murphy, retiring Under Secretary of State.

Cemented behind the cornerstone was a rectangular copper box. It included selected historical documents such as the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's initial memorandum, dated Nov. 18, 1944, setting up the CIA.

Eisenhower told the CIA agents their work demands the highest order of dedication, ability, trustworthiness and selflessness "to say nothing of the finest type of courage whenever needed."

Reds Reverse Nuclear Stand

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviets unexpectedly agreed Tuesday to a Western demand for re-examination of methods to police underground nuclear explosions.

This was a complete turnabout from the previous Soviet position in negotiations for a nuclear test ban being carried on here by the three nuclear nations—the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

Since early this year the Western powers had tried to persuade the Soviet Union that much scientific data the talks are based on is outdated.

The scientific and technical basis for the negotiations was set by an East-West group of scientists who met here in 1958.

An American scientific report compiled later said that underground explosions could be more easily concealed than the scientists had believed in 1958.

ICBM Airlift Is Successful

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force successfully airlifted an Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic missile (ICBM) from California to Wyoming Tuesday in what it described as an "historic" flight.

All previous movements of the big ocean-spanning missiles have been made by special truck trailers.

The Air Force said the purpose of the flight "was to demonstrate delivery capabilities of airlifting the Atlas and to carry out logistic studies in connection with ballistic missiles."

The flight was made from the Miramar Air Station, San Diego, Calif., to the ballistic missile division of the Air Research and Development Command (ARDC) at Warren Air Force Base, Wyo.

9th Cop Arrested In Columbus, O., Burglary Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A motorcycle patrolman Tuesday became the ninth officer arrested in a continuing investigation of burglaries and thefts involving Columbus policemen.

Patrolman Raymond E. McKnight, 34, is being held for questioning.

In other developments:

Patrolman Charles R. Haapala, 29, was charged with burglary and grand larceny in connection with a theft at a supermarket.

Sgt. James S. Faris, 47, charged with burglary and grand larceny and released from custody under $10,000 bond, will be arraigned in Municipal Court Wednesday.

McKnight's involvement, said Inspector Harvey List, "seemed minor" and consisted mainly of "knowledge which he didn't report."

Of the officers arrested thus far, only two have denied burglary or thievery or knowledge of such acts, investigators said.

NBC Fires Van Doren From $50,000-Year Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren was fired Tuesday from his $50,000-a-year job with the National Broadcasting Co. in the wake of his admissions that his TV quiz show performances were rigged.

NBC said "those who have knowingly engaged in the fraud of quiz show rigging must be removed from the broadcasting scene."

The network's action came a day after Columbia University announced it had dropped Van Doren as a $5,500-a-year assistant English professor.

In both cases, Van Doren's testimony before a House subcommittee Monday, admitting he got advance coaching on TV quiz questions and answers, was cited as the basis for his removal.

NBC said "in the light of the facts that have now emerged, it is clear that Mr. Van Doren abused the confidence of the viewing public as a performer as well as a 'Twenty-One' contestant."

It was on this show that the personable, young Van Doren, son of a noted literary family, catapulted into nationwide attention as an intellectual hero. He won $129,000 on the show.

As a result of his performances, NBC made him a consultant, and he appeared regularly as a commentator on the "Today" show. His contract, signed April 12, 1957, was to run until next August.

However, an NBC spokesman said the contract was being canceled and Van Doren's pay cut off immediately. He had been suspended with pay, pending a final determination.

Trial In Absentia

HAVANA (AP)—A court Tuesday began trying Cuba's former air force commander, Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz, in Absentia on homicide charges for an alleged air attack on Havana. U.S. officials have said Diaz Lanz admitted flying over Havana in a leaflet dropping mission, but denied his plane bombed or machinegunned the city.

U.N. Deadlock Holds Through 37th Ballot

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The General Assembly went through a record 37th ballot Tuesday without breaking the deadlock between U.S.-backed Turkey and Soviet-supported Poland in the race for a two-year Security Council term.

Poland regained the lead on the 37th ballot by 42 votes to 38, with 54 votes required for election. The assembly then approved the recommendation of its president, Dr. Victor Andres Belaunde of Peru, to suspend further voting for two weeks.

Grand Jury Indictment In Lynch Case Unlikely

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (UPI)— An all-white Pearl River County grand jury finished its investigations Tuesday and apparently declined to indict anyone for the lynching of Negro Mack Charles Parker.

A usually - reliable source said the 18-member grand jury had finished its consideration of criminal bills of indictment and would submit a report Thursday.

The grand jury, meeting behind closed doors, did not call any of the more than 60 FBI agents who took part in a month-long investigation of the Parker lynching last spring.

Because the grand jury acts in secret, officials would not tell newsmen even when it would reconvene. But it was learned that the panel's consideration of cases before it apparently was ended without true bills being returned in the Parker case.

The FBI withdrew from the case after the Justice Department reported it failed to find that any federal laws had been violated. But the FBI submitted to Gov. J. P. Coleman a detailed, 378-page report which named nearly a score of men as suspects.

Parker, a 23-year-old Negro accused of raping a pregnant white woman on a country road last February, was dragged from a jail cell here April 25 by a mob of masked, gloved white men who beat him, shot him and threw his body in the Pearl River.

It was understood that the grand jury did not receive the FBI report which Coleman turned over to the district attorney and Pearl River County prosecutor.

Escaped Cop Killer Captured By Hunter

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI)—Escaped "cop killer" Erwin M. (Machine Gun) Walker surrendered meekly Tuesday to a hunter who found him sitting on a hillside, the sheriff's office reported.

Walker, 42, World War II hero, escaped from the Atascadero State Hospital for the criminally insane Saturday night. He was transferred to the hospital after originally being sentenced to die for killing a California Highway patrolman in 1946.

The hunter, John C. Garcia, of Atascadero, said he spotted Walker about five miles south of Atascadero while hunting quail this morning. He said he suspected the man's identity, pointed his shotgun at him and ordered him to surrender.

Government, USW Debate T-H Legality

Union Says Strike Has Not Imperiled Nation's Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court listened Tuesday as government and steel union lawyers debated the legality of a back-to-work order. Then it began pondering a decision that will influence the course of the historic steel strike and the future of the Taft-Hartley law.

There was no indication when the high court may hand down its decision, but it was not expected to delay long with the steel mill shutdown 112 days old.

The justices discussed the case behind closed doors for nearly three hours. Then a court aide told newsmen there would be no announcement Tuesday night. He gave no sign when the court may act.

Fighting the back-to-work order issued by a lower court, union counsel Arthur J. Goldberg said that in enacting the Taft-Hartley law Congress "passed the buck to the Supreme Court to break strikes."

Solicitor General Replies

Replying for the government, Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin said that in passing the law, with its strike-ending emergency machinery, Congress sought to protect the interest of all the nation rather than either labor or management.

Their arguments took more than four hours.

All nine justices, in their black robes, were seated behind their long bench to hear the United Steelworkers Union appeal from a U.S. District Court injunction that would send 500,000 strikers back to the steel mills at least for 80 days.

No Emergency, USW Claims

That order was issued two weeks ago by Judge Herbert Sorg in Pittsburgh, and upheld by an appeals court in Philadelphia last week. But the injunction will not go into effect at least until the Supreme Court rules on the union's appeal.

Goldberg contended there is no national emergency to warrant such drastic action, that there is no threat to national health and safety within the meaning of the law, that Judge Sorg went too far, that the injunction section of the Taft-Hartley law is unconstitutional because it gives too much power to the courts.

Rankin disputed him on every point, and the justices peppered both lawyers with questions.

U.N. Deadlock Holds Through 37th Ballot

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —The General Assembly went through a record 37th ballot Tuesday without breaking the deadlock between U.S.-backed Turkey and Soviet-supported Poland in the race for a two-year Security Council term.

Poland regained the lead on the 37th ballot by 42 votes to 38, with 54 votes required for election. The assembly then approved the recommendation of its president, Dr. Victor Andres Belaunde of Peru, to suspend further voting for two weeks.

Trial In Absentia

HAVANA (AP)—A court Tuesday began trying Cuba's former air force commander, Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz, in Absentia on homicide charges for an alleged air attack on Havana. U.S. officials have said Diaz Lanz admitted flying over Havana in a leaflet dropping mission, but denied his plane bombed or machinegunned the city.

Dilworth Wins; Demo Leads Ky. Governor Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Democrat Bert T. Combs, once a $200 a month clerk in the state Highway Department, Tuesday was elected governor of Kentucky by a margin that may reach record-breaking proportions.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats grabbed an apparently unbeatable lead Tuesday night in the Kentucky gubernatorial battle and administered a likely "kiss of death" to the political aspirations of Republican Harold E. Stassen.

Democrat Bert T. Combs built up a 74,000-vote lead over Republican John M. Robison Jr. with nearly half the precincts counted in Kentucky.

Stassen, one-time "boy wonder" of GOP politics, was soundly trounced in his bid to upset incumbent Democrat Richardson Dilworth in the race for mayor of Philadelphia. Dilworth scored 134,000-vote landslide win.

Stassen, a former governor of Minnesota and former adviser to President Eisenhower, lost a try for Pennsylvania's governorship last year and for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948 and 1952.

In other scattered off-year elections that may provide some grass-roots clue to the trend in next year's presidential balloting, Democrats rode rough-shod over the GOP in retaining control of mayor's offices in Indiana. Indianapolis, South Bend, and Muncie, were among cities remaining in the Democratic column.

Mississippi elected Democrat Ross Barnett, who had no GOP opposition, as governor.

In Boston, John E. Powers, president of the state senate, was defeated in an upset by John F. Collins, Suffolk County register of probate, in the race for mayor. Both were Democrats. The losing candidate had been endorsed by Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), a contender for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

A central figure in the Kentucky gubernatorial battle was outgoing Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who was ineligible to succeed himself. After Chandler's choice for governor was defeated in the Democratic primary, he refused to back Combs, who was endorsed by Chandler's political rival, former Sen. Earle C. Clements.

Rocket Fuel "Mixer" Killed By Explosion

ORDILL, Ill. (UPI)—A rocket propellent mixture explosion blasted apart a research laboratory at the Olin Mathieson Co. chemical plant Tuesday and killed the supervisor of a "top secret" mixing operation.

Nine other workers in a control room 300 feet from the mixing shed escaped injury, but policemen equipped with Geiger counters had to search for hours before finding a radioactive capsule enclosed in a lead box which had been in the laboratory.

Company officials refused to reveal the nature or purpose of the capsule for security reasons.

The dead man was identified as Robert R. Gravatt, 38, section chief of the firm's solid propellant fuel plant.

He was supervising mixture of 2,000 pounds of fuel for what was reported to be one of the nation's "top secret rockets" when the explosion destroyed the shed and smashed windows in a city 12 miles away.

A co-worker in the control room separated from the mixing shed by a long corridor, said that if the blast had occurred 15 minutes later three other men would have been in the shed with Gravatt.

The worker, who asked not to be identified because of security reasons, said Gravatt was watching the mixing operations and was in contact with the control room by telephone.

Gravatt's co-workers said the explosion might have been caused by friction in the fuel-making machine, according to Coroner Adolph Fluck.

Three Airmen Die In Collision Of Two AF Jets

BINGHAM, Maine (AP) — Two Air Force jets collided Tuesday night and crashed in a wilderness area about 10 miles northwest of here. The Air Force said three men were killed.

The planes, an F102 fighter and a T33 trainer, were from Ethan Allen Air Force Base, Burlington, Vt.

Two men were aboard the trainer, and one was in the F102. The wreckage has not been sighted, but a search party of state police and game wardens started for the general area.

Grand Jury Indictment In Lynch Case Unlikely

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—An all-white Pearl River County grand jury finished its investigations Tuesday and apparently declined to indict anyone for the lynching of Negro Mack Charles Parker.

A usually - reliable source said the 18-member grand jury had finished its consideration of criminal bills of indictment and would submit a report Thursday.

The grand jury, meeting behind closed doors, did not call any of the more than 60 FBI agents who took part in a month-long investigation of the Parker lynching last spring.

Because the grand jury acts in secret, officials would not tell newsmen even when it would reconvene. But it was learned that the panel's consideration of cases before it apparently was ended without true bills being returned in the Parker case.

The FBI withdrew from the case after the Justice Department reported it failed to find that any federal laws had been violated. But the FBI submitted to Gov. J. P. Coleman a detailed, 378-page report which named nearly a score of men as suspects.

Parker, a 23-year-old Negro accused of raping a pregnant white woman on a country road last February, was dragged from a jail cell here April 25 by a mob of masked, gloved white men who beat him, shot him and threw his body in the Pearl River.

It was understood that the grand jury did not receive the FBI report which Coleman turned over to the district attorney and Pearl River County prosecutor.

Crowds Fight Canal Police, Tear Up Flag

Demonstrators Are Driven Back At Bayonet Point

PANAMA (AP) — American Army riflemen with bayonets bristling took command at the Panama Canal Zone border Tuesday after anti-U.S. Panamanians tore up an American Embassy flag, fought for hours with U.S. canal police and damaged American property.

It was a celebration of Panama's independence day that got destructively out of hand in a frenzy of anti-U.S. manifestations similar in tone to the current vocal outbursts in Cuba.

The United States quickly made a formal protest to the Panama government.

The government had known in advance of demonstrations in the making on the day celebrating Panama's liberation from Colombia 56 years ago.

Perennial Target

The United States has a unique hold on the Canal Zone bisecting the Republic of Panama—a lease in perpetuity—and it is a perennial target of Panamanian nationalists and other agitators.

The demonstrators attacked U. S. policemen at the boundary of the Canal Zone in an open challenge to American sovereignty over the waterway.

A crowd attacked the embassy, pulled down the American flag in front of the building, and tore it up. They hoisted the Panamanian flag on the pole and carried away the remnants of the U.S. flag.

Flying rocks smashed embassy windows.

Panamanian National Guardsmen finally dispersed the throng.

Canal Zone Gov. William E. Potter had the Army take over the border area after civilian police and firemen of the Canal Zone had fought for hours with demonstrators bent on carrying the Panamanian flag into the Canal Zone.

Infiltrators Driven Back

Troops took positions along Fourth of July Avenue, the boundary between this capital and the Canal Zone.

The soldiers set up automatic weapons on tripods at another border area where demonstrators had clashed with police since 11:30 a.m. About 150 demonstrators had infiltrated the Canal Zone carrying a large Panamanian flag. They were driven back to the Panama side at bayonet point.

Anti-U.S. disorders were also reported on the Atlantic side of the Canal Zone—across the Isthmus of Panama from Panama City-in the area bordering on the Panamanian city of Colon.

ICBM Airlift Is Successful

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force successfully airlifted an Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic missile (ICBM) from California to Wyoming Tuesday in what it described as an "historic" flight.

All previous movements of the big ocean-spanning missiles have been made by special truck trailers.

The Air Force said the purpose of the flight "was to demonstrate delivery capabilities of airlifting the Atlas and to carry out logistic studies in connection with ballistic missiles."

The flight was made from the Miramar Air Station, San Diego, Calif., to the ballistic missile division of the Air Research and Development Command (ARDC) at Warren Air Force Base, Wyo.

Escaped Cop Killer Captured By Hunter

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI)—Escaped "cop killer" Erwin M. (Machine Gun) Walker surrendered meekly Tuesday to a hunter who found him sitting on a hillside, the sheriff's office reported.

Walker, 42, World War II hero, escaped from the Atascadero State Hospital for the criminally insane Saturday night. He was transferred to the hospital after originally being sentenced to die for killing a California Highway patrolman in 1946.

The hunter, John C. Garcia, of Atascadero, said he spotted Walker about five miles south of Atascadero while hunting quail this morning. He said he suspected the man's identity, pointed his shotgun at him and ordered him to surrender.

Nikirk Contends He Was Tricked By Tax Agents

BALTIMORE (AP)—Prosecutor Edwin F. Nikirk contended Tuesday he was tricked into disclosing information about his income to Internal Revenue Service agents who he said assured him he would not be criminally prosecuted.

The Frederick County state's attorney, through his lawyers, filed a motion in Federal District Court asking that such evidence be suppressed or that the indictment be dismissed.

Nikirk was accused in a three-count indictment handed down by a federal grand jury 10 months ago of evading $10,423 in taxes in the years 1952-54. He was in private practice at the time. The case is set for trial Jan. 11.

Nikirk's attorneys, Benjamin B. Rosenstock of Frederick, and Cornelius P. Mundy of Baltimore, filed the motion seeking to upset the government's case. They also asked for particulars on the charges and for permission to inspect and copy certain evidence.

The petition to dismiss said a tax agent called on Nikirk in November 1955 and said he had no intention of "causing difficulty." The agent was quoted as saying he was just making a routine examination to find out if Nikirk was civilly liable for additional tax.

Later, the agents told Nikirk they were investigating to prepare a criminal case, it was claimed.

The petition said the evidence had been obtained by "misrepresentation, trickery, deceit and fraud in violation of the rights of the defendant under the Fourth and Fifth amendments to the Constitution of the United States."

Atlas Squadron Combat-Ready, General Says

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — An Atlas squadron capable of hurling missiles up to 6,300 miles is ready to launch on 15 minutes notice from Vandenberg Air Force Base, a general said Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. David Wade, commander of the 1st Missile Division, made the disclosure in a speech to the Inland Empire Waterways Assn.

He said an Atlas squadron is integrated into the Strategic Air Command's emergency war plan.

This is the first intercontinental ballistic missile squadron to reach combat readiness. The Atlas is an 85-foot missile designed to carry nuclear explosives more than 15,000 miles per hour at an altitude of 500 miles.

"In the months ahead six more Atlas squadrons and five Titan squadrons are scheduled to move into launching sites across the nation," Wade said.

Air Force combat troops successfully launched their first Atlas ICBM from Vandenberg on Sept. 9.

Wade said the Titan, a liquid-fueled ICBM which is launched from a silo 160 feet deep, "should become operational about a year from now."

The average Atlas squadron consists of nine launching pads. Titan squadrons usually have nine launching pits or silos.

Ben-Gurion's Party Leading In Elections

JERUSALEM (Israeli Sector), Wednesday (UPI) — Premier David Ben-Gurion's moderate Mapai Labor Party took an expected lead today in early returns from Tuesday's Knesset (parliament) elections. Observers predicted the trend in favor of Mapai would continue throughout the vote counting.

With returns in from 200 of Israel's 2,000 polling stations, Mapai won 12,780 of the 27,083 valid votes counted. This represented 47.8 per cent of the total tallied.

About 80 per cent of the total of 1,200,000 eligible voters cast ballots.

CD Agency Requests 90% Boost In Funds

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's Civil Defense agency wants more money for the next fiscal year, part of it because of CD's new underground, virtually bomb-proof headquarters.

The request filed with the Department of Budget and Procurement for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 seeks $302,278 from the state's general fund, almost 90 per cent more than the current appropriation of $159,227.

L. W. Tipton, Civil Defense administrative officer, said the $143,051 increase reflects salaries for technicians to man a new statewide communications system, as well as higher maintenance cost for Civil Defense headquarters at Pikesville in Baltimore County.

The headquarters is beneath 24 inches of concrete and Tipton said it could survive anything short of a direct hit. He said the communications system would serve all state departments, not just Civil Defense.

8,500 Parking Permits Issued For 826 Spaces

BALTIMORE (AP)—How would you park 10 cars in one parking space?

That's one of the stiffer intellectual challenges kicking around the campus at Johns Hopkins University these days.

It's really nothing more than a simple matter of long division—and sometimes short tempers. The university has 826 parking spaces but issued 8,500 parking permits.

Actually, of course, there are never 8,500 cars on the campus at one time. But it would appear there would be more than 826.

Assistant Plant Manager Joseph Geiger said almost any student can have a parking sticker "but that's merely a hunting license."

He said his views were based on sitting in on weekly meetings attended by representatives of Revlon, its advertising agents, and the program producers. He named Martin Revson, a vice president of Revlon, as spokesman for the company at these sessions.

The "$64,000 Question" was originated by Louis G. Cowan, now president of CBS-TV. Koplin said that no, the program wasn't designed as a controlled show, but became one after the first few months to keep up its ratings.

Cowan has said there was no rigging of the show during seven weeks in 1955 when he was actively associated with it.

And Koplin told the subcommittee that the show was completely honest while Cowan was connected with it directly.

Cugat said that he got all the questions and answers in advance and: "I did it strictly, strictly for publicity."

Now, he said, he knows the public was deceived, and "I wish I'd never gone on for 60 million dollars."

"At that time," he said, "I was thinking I was just giving a show."

A day or so before he went on the program, he said, Koplin came to his apartment and went over a series of questions and answers. Not in so many words, he said, did Koplin tell him the same questions and answers on popular music would be used on the show.

"But when the questions were asked on the show," Cugat said, "they were the very same questions I had been asked in my apartment."

Teamsters Plan Political Action Machine For '60

DETROIT (AP)—James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, said Tuesday his union hopes to develop a powerful national political action machine for the 1960 elections.

Hoffa told a meeting of the Central States Conference of Teamsters that the union's political organization "will be perfectly willing" to work with the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education in areas where such co-operation is desired.

Hoffa said the fact that the Teamsters had been expelled by the AFL-CIO in 1957 would be no roadblock to political co-operation with all other unions if the Teamsters were invited.

He said Teamsters officials estimate that the union's political expenditures will approximate 15 cents a month per member. On the basis of an average quarterly membership of 1,672,000, this would amount roughly to $3,460,000 a year.

Hoffa said part of the money would come from the Teamsters' 38 million dollar treasury as educational funds, while the funds to be expended directly for the election of Teamsters-supported candidates would come from voluntary donations by Teamsters Union members and business agents.

40,000-Ton British Liner Is Launched

BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England (UPI)—The 40,000-ton liner Oriana, biggest passenger vessel to be built in Britain since the Queen Elizabeth 20 years ago, was launched here Tuesday at the Vickers-Armstrong shipyard.

Princess Alexandra, first cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, christened the vessel with bottles of U.S., French and Australian wines replacing the traditional champagne. She then pressed the button to send the $29,200,000 ship down the slipway.

Delmarva Waterway Proposed

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — Rep. Thomas F. Johnson (D-Md) announced Tuesday he will ask the next Congress to initiate an inland waterway on the Delmarva Peninsula.

Johnson envisions a waterway for boats extending from Lewes, Del., to Koppopeke, Va., a distance of about 130 miles. It would be on bay waters all the way.

Johnson had no estimate of the total cost, but said it would not be great.

Question Of Belief In God As Qualification For Notary License Argued In Circuit Court

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Can a man be denied a license as a notary public in Maryland because he will not swear to a belief in God?

That question was argued before the Montgomery County Circuit Court Tuesday in an action brought by Roy R. Torcaso, Wheaton, Md.

He asked the court to direct the county clerk to certify him as a notary public despite his refusal to take an oath to his belief in God.

Stedman Prescott Jr., Maryland deputy attorney general, representing the county, conceded "a non-believer in God has the right to be a non-believer."

But, Prescott argued, "he does not have the right to hold public office."

The right to hold office, Prescott contended, "is not just a right but a privilege, and the state must set up qualifications . . . one of those qualifications is the belief in God."

Counsel for Torcaso disagreed, saying the state "is without authority to ask anyone what his views are for any position of trust . . . Man is granted the right to worship as he pleases and the state does not have the authority to question his belief."

The American Jewish Congress, intervening in the case, was granted 10 days in which to file legal briefs supporting Torcaso's position. A spokesman said the congress would carry the case to the Supreme Court if necessary on grounds that the Maryland requirement that office holders swear their belief in God violates the U. S. Constitution.

Torcaso, meantime, declined comment or even to give his age saying:

"My religion, my beliefs and my age are my secret."

Smoking Lamp Lighted For Wicomico High Girls

SALISBURY (AP) — The smoking lamp is lighted for Wicomico High School girls.

Principal George H. Corddry Jr. said Tuesday smoking privileges, once restricted to teachers and boy pupils, had been extended to the girls — at the insistence of parents.

He explained this as a move to control student smoking — a hot issue in this Eastern Shore town of Maryland — by limiting it to certain areas. It seems that the boys have been allowed to smoke for years, but disciplinary action was taken against girls caught sneaking a drag.

"Considerable pressure has been exerted by some parents to allow the girls to smoke," said Corddry.

Clouding the issue somewhat is the fact that cigaret sales are not prohibited by state law to children over 14, but a state school board by-law prohibits pupils from using tobacco on school premises during class hours.

The problem, says Wicomico School Superintendent Royd A. Mahaffey, is "an internal one."

Tawes, Almond Will Discuss River Compact

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia will confer with Gov. J. Millard Tawes of Maryland in Washington Thursday in an effort to learn what stand the Tawes administration will take on next year's referendum on the new Potomac River compact.

The outcome of this meeting may determine whether Virginia decides to renew or hold in abeyance a pending suit against Maryland to prevent it from abrogating the original Compact of 1785.

The suit was filed in the U.S. Supreme Court two years ago when Maryland's General Assembly declared the old pact dead and adopted legislation assuming control over fishing and oystering on the Maryland-owned river.

The suit was referred to retired Supreme Court Justice Stanley F. Reed, who sat as a special master to hear both sides of the controversy. On his suggestion, the two states worked out a new compact, approved by both legislatures, to put control of fishing rights and conservation matters in the hands of a joint commission.

Before the new agreement could become effective, however, a group of Southern Maryland watermen successfully petitioned for a popular referendum to be held in November, 1960. Under Maryland law, voters at that time will decide whether the pact will become operative or not.

In the meantime, the two states must report to Justice Reed by Nov. 16 on their efforts to settle their dispute out of court.

At Thursday's meeting, Almond is expected to ask Tawes whether his administration will support or oppose the plans of the dissatisfied Marylanders to prevent the operation of the new pact by defeating it in the referendum election.

Man Found Guilty In Stray Bullet Case

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Sanders E. Brown, 27, was found guilty Monday of charges of assault and carrying a concealed weapon. The charges stemmed from a street incident in which an 11-year-old boy was hit by a stray bullet.

Judge John B. Diamond III of Peoples Court ordered Brown to pay a $400 fine or serve 120 days in jail.

The shooting occurred outside a Rockville tavern Oct. 4 when, police said, Brown fired a revolver near a crowd and one of the bullets richocheted and grazed the face of the boy.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a college student who thinks it's just terrible the way you advise young girls not to tell their fiances about past indiscretions. In other words, you are recommending that they lie.

Instead of encouraging girls to be deceitful and pose as something they are not, why not suggest that they refrain from doing things they will be ashamed of later? In my opinion this would do more good than advising them to put on a fake front and live a lie.

NORTHWESTERN MISS

DEAR NORTHWESTERN MISS: Unless you started to read this column yesterday you should be well aware that I am always telling girls not to do things they will be ashamed of later.

This advice, however, is too late for girls who write and want to know what to tell the boy friend about a foolish mistake of the past.

I never suggest that a girl lie. I advise her (and a fellow, as well) to keep the lip zipped about past affairs. This does not mean a child born out of wedlock should be kept a secret. A child is more than an "affair."

Too often ghosts from the past are used as weapons with which a guilt-ridden girl is beaten over the head unmercifully for years on end.

Every girl has a right to say "I am what I am today. You can accept me on that basis, or not at all." This isn't lying. It's straight talk. And a fellow who can't take it should be given his hat, and a farewell handshake.

The following letter arrived this morning. It illustrated the point beautifully.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the column in which you said a girl is a fool to tell her fiance about a past love affair. I wish I had followed your advice 10 years ago when John looked at me with large, honest eyes and said "Tell me EVERYTHING, darling. I promise it won't make any difference."

Like a big sap I told him. He patted my hand reassuringly, and said "Forget it, dear. It doesn't matter." Well, I forgot it, but HE didn't.

Four weeks after we were married we had our first big argument. Out of the blue he flung "my rotten past" in my face. He said he shouldn't have married a "tramp" and suggested there were probably "several others" I had failed to mention.

We have four lovely children, a nice home and two cars. But every time we have an argument he brings up my "past." I really can't blame HIM, however, because I was the stupid one.

NO ANGEL

DEAR ANN: I'm a fellow 20, with a good job in a tire plant. I make good money and am saving to get married in a couple of years. I give my folks 20% of my salary for room and board.

They have argued, thrown things and pounded on tables and walls with their fists ever since I can remember. This past year it's worse than ever. Three nights last week I couldn't get to sleep until daylight because they fought until 2 a. m. and their voices rang in my ears for hours. I was half dead and couldn't do my work at the plant.

Any advice you can give me will be appreciated.

ALWAYS TIRED

DEAR ALWAYS: Tell your folks if they don't sign a peaceful co-existence pact you'll rent a room somewhere or move to the YMCA. Trying to sleep in a battle zone would make anyone a wreck.

Youths Quizzed In Local Thefts

Officials of the State's Attorney's Office yesterday continued the questioning of two local teenagers who have reportedly admitted taking approximately $403 worth of guns and ammunition, $100 in cash and an amount of clothing from local stores.

The pair, both 16 years of age, were arrested Sunday in Oakland by the Maryland State Police. They admitted the thefts during questioning by Tfc. Milton Hart of the State Police and Lt. Det. James E. Van and Det. Thomas See of the City Police Department.

Yesterday Sgt. William F. Baker and James S. Getty, state's attorney for Allegany County, continued to quiz the pair in connection with other breaking and enterings in the area. However, they did not admit any more thefts.

County authorities indicated that they will request a waiver from Juvenile Court and charge the youths with more serious crimes.

In addition to being involved in the theft of six pistols and ammunition from the Wilson Hardware Store, North Mechanic Street, the youths also admitted taking approximately $88 in cash from Collins Tavern on Irons Mountain and an unknown amount of clothing from three downtown Cumberland stores.

The clothing, guns and most of the ammunition was recovered.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a college student who thinks it's just terrible the way you advise young girls not to tell their fiances about past indiscretions. In other words, you are recommending that they lie.

Instead of encouraging girls to be deceitful and pose as something they are not, why not suggest that they refrain from doing things they will be ashamed of later? In my opinion this would do more good than advising them to put on a fake front and live a lie.

NORTHWESTERN MISS

DEAR NORTHWESTERN MISS: Unless you started to read this column yesterday you should be well aware that I am always telling girls not to do things they will be ashamed of later.

This advice, however, is too late for girls who write and want to know what to tell the boy friend about a foolish mistake of the past.

I never suggest that a girl lie. I advise her (and a fellow, as well) to keep the lip zipped about past affairs. This does not mean a child born out of wedlock should be kept a secret. A child is more than an "affair."

Too often ghosts from the past are used as weapons with which a guilt-ridden girl is beaten over the head unmercifully for years on end.

Every girl has a right to say "I am what I am today. You can accept me on that basis, or not at all." This isn't lying. It's straight talk. And a fellow who can't take it should be given his hat, and a farewell handshake.

The following letter arrived this morning. It illustrated the point beautifully.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the column in which you said a girl is a fool to tell her fiance about a past love affair. I wish I had followed your advice 10 years ago when John looked at me with large, honest eyes and said "Tell me EVERYTHING, darling. I promise it won't make any difference."

Like a big sap I told him. He patted my hand reassuringly, and said "Forget it, dear. It doesn't matter." Well, I forgot it, but HE didn't.

Four weeks after we were married we had our first big argument. Out of the blue he flung "my rotten past" in my face. He said he shouldn't have married a "tramp" and suggested there were probably "several others" I had failed to mention.

We have four lovely children, a nice home and two cars. But every time we have an argument he brings up my "past." I really can't blame HIM, however, because I was the stupid one.

NO ANGEL

DEAR ANN: I'm a fellow 20, with a good job in a tire plant. I make good money and am saving to get married in a couple of years. I give my folks 20% of my salary for room and board.

They have argued, thrown things and pounded on tables and walls with their fists ever since I can remember. This past year it's worse than ever. Three nights last week I couldn't get to sleep until daylight because they fought until 2 a. m. and their voices rang in my ears for hours. I was half dead and couldn't do my work at the plant.

Any advice you can give me will be appreciated.

ALWAYS TIRED

DEAR ALWAYS: Tell your folks if they don't sign a peaceful co-existence pact you'll rent a room somewhere or move to the YMCA. Trying to sleep in a battle zone would make anyone a wreck.

UPV Kennel Club May 22 Show Judges Approved

The Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club announces it has received approval by the AKC of the judging panel, selected for its All Breed Show, May 22. The group assignments include Col. Edward D. McQuown, Group 1, sporting breeds, except Pointers; Group 2, hound breeds, Group 5, toy breeds; Henry H. Stoecker, Group 3, working breeds and Group 6, non-sporting breeds; and Dr. E. S. If there is enough interest, classes in show ring procedure will be made available. Information on any phase of the dog show or obedience trials may be obtained by calling Mr. Ware; Miss Laura Nickel, obedience chairman, both of Cumberland; or Mrs. Earl Smith, secretary, Lonaconing.

Chosen to judge Best in Show, Dr. Montgomery, of Natrona Heights, Pa., he is known both as a judge and breeder of quality Bull Terriers. He also will pass on Pointers, Bassett Hounds, Dachshunds, English and American Foxhounds, Harriers and Giant Schnauzers. An All Breed judge, Col. McQuown of Xenia, Ohio, will handle all Hounds except Bassett, Dachshunds, American and English Deerhounds and Harriers; working breeds, except Boxers, Colliers, German Shepherds, Giant Schnauzers, Shelties and St. Bernards; all Toy breeds except Toy Poodles. In the Terrier group he will judge Minature Schnauzers.

His assignment includes Toy Poodles, Boxers, Colliers, German Shepherds, Great Danes, Standard Schnauzers, Sheltios, St. Bernards as well as the non sporting group and miscellaneous class.

Wiley Ford Residence Damaged By Fire

A family of six was left homeless yesterday following a fire in their two-story dwelling, marking the second Wiley Ford family to be burned out in three days.

The latest victims are Mr. and Mrs. C. G. (Bud) Peer, and their four children. This past Saturday flames destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hardy and their three children.

Fire Chief Brownie Strawderman of Wiley Ford said yesterday that the blazes were similar inasmuch as no one was at home at the time of the fires.

The fire today broke out around 4 a. m., and was out of control when firemen arrived from Wiley Ford, Short Gap and Ridgeley. Approximately 38 men, using five pieces of equipment, battled the blaze before bringing it under control.

The entire interior, including furniture and clothing, was destroyed by the flames which firemen believe started in the rear basement section of the dwelling.

The flames shot through the kitchen floor, licked their way up the walls and gutted two small bedrooms on the second floor. All the walls, floors and furniture were charred.

Most of the flooring on the second story was burned away, and firemen were forced to chop holes in the upper sides of the building to reach the fire.

Although the weather was freezing, firemen had little water trouble. However, they were hampered by heavy smoke which filled the home.

One fireman said when he arrived and opened the front door, flames and smoke drove him out. Gas masks were worn to enter the dwelling.

The house, reportedly partly covered by insurance, is located next to another frame home. But firemen were able to confine the flames to the Peer residence. The home was well insulated, which also proved a problem in battling the flames.

Firemen yesterday were pumping water from the basement in an effort to determine the exact cause of the fire. The possibility of the blaze starting from an overheated furnace was ruled out, since the section where the fire started was some distance from the heating plant.

Firemen did manage to save some of the family's clothing. A television set and five rooms of furniture were lost.

The Peer children are Robert, age 10; Charles, seven: Jerry, 14, and Sharon, 13.

The Hardy family and their children, Barbara, 9; Renee, 4, and Marshal, 3, were left homeless when defective wiring set off the blaze which gutted their dwelling.

Damage to the Hardy home was estimated at $4,500. Firemen estimated the damage around $6,000 to the Peer home.

Chief Strawderman said members of his company are conducting a furniture and clothing drive for the two families. Persons wishing to donate should telephone RE 8-9379.

Members of the Wiley Ford Auxiliary supplied the firemen with hot coffee and sandwiches.

County Board Approves Reports

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved five reports by J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, in connection with inspections of properties with health hazards.

The sanitarian's report concerned the Mt. Savage section with a property on Calla Hill being termed unfit for habitation. The owner is given 30 days to make the necessary repairs or raze the structure.

Two property owners were given 15 days to remove an accumulation of trash from their property. The situation was termed a health hazard. Two other property owners were ordered to refrain fron. dumping trash and garbage along a stream which abuts on their property.

The first artificial eyes were manufactured by Pierre Gougelman in New York in 1851.

Board Gets Report On Use Of Pinto Road

A report has been received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on the traffic flow on seven county roads which was made by automatic counters supplied to the county through the Maryland State Roads Commission.

The heaviest traveled of the seven was the Pinto Road over which employes at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory drive to and from work.

A counter at the West Virginia end of the Pinto Road listed 8,984 cars with one day missing out of the week-long record due to a faulty mechanism in the counter. The largest number of cars in the period was 2,091 on October 16.

At the intersection of Pinto Road and McMullen Highway the counter checked 11,164 cars during the week's period. Largest single day of traffic was October 18 with 1,999 cars counted.

The Cash Valley Road counter at the U. S. Route 40 end showed 5,104 cars during the week with 956 cars checked October 18. The Corriganvile intersection of the road had 4,869 cars counted. There were 852 cars checked October 18.

The Pleasant Valley Road counter listed 2,010 cars with 386 being checked October 16.

The Orleans Road (north) had 1,143 cars during the week and 258 on October 21. The Mann Road had 350 cars in the period and 91 on October 25.

The Belle Grove Road counter listed 480 cars with 107 on October 25.

The Orleans Road at the U. S. Route 40 intersection listed 825 cars with 188 on October 25. The same road at Orleans checked 477 cars during the week's period with 107 on October 25.

Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, told the commissioners the traffic count is useful in determining the roadways which need certain specifications of construction and also the justification for road work.

Judge Harris Denies Petition

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris has denied the petition of William Baxter Bailey, of Garrett County, under the Post Conviction Procedure Act whereby he sought his freedom from the House of Correction.

Bailey was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court at Oakland to two years in the House of Correction on two counts of forgery when he was tried August 28. The court had appointed Frederick A. Thayer as counsel for the accused.

In his petition the prisoner raised the following points. That his family is being unfairly punished because of his incarceration, that the informations on which he was tried were not sworn to by the prosecuting witnesses, and that there was no evidence presented in court although the witnesses were present.

Judge Harris in his written opinion stated that "these points are rather frivolous." The first point has no merit whatsoever and the second and third points misinterpret the law, the court ruled.

City To Repair Leaks At Lake Gordon, Koon

City Water Department officials discussed needs at the Lake Gordon and Lake Koon dams at a conference Monday in the office of Commissioner G. Ray Light.

Light said Sanitary Engineer Franklin J. Blaney and Mayor J. Edwin Keech attended the session.

Blaney has been instructed to start repairing all leaks in the main water line leading to the city. The line was checked yesterday and the remainder of the week with repair work probably beginning Monday. Light said it is surprising to learn that thousands of gallons of water are wasted daily through leaks and it was also discovered in a walking tour of the line that some people had built over the water right-of-way. This situation will be remedied also, Light said.

The water officials also plan to meet with a representative of a concrete company to discuss repairs to the face of Lake Koon.

Different needs at the dam will be listed by Blaney, Light said, and they will be taken one at a time. This is aimed at erasing faults found in the water setup. One need is the conversion of all pumping stations to automatic operation so that the operator can tell by guages which reservoir is low on water and the supply can be improved. Information is being obtained on the automatic conversion.

Another item being given top priority, Light said, is a plan to improve water pressure, particularly to those areas which have been complaining of a low supply. This is presently under study, he said.

The city was disappointed that it received only one bid on chlorinators for the filter plant, Light said, and is contacting at least two other companies which might be interested. It is felt that a better price can be obtained under the more competitive situation.

Getty Gets Ruling On Obscene Films

James S. Getty, state's attorney for Allegany County, yesterday received a ruling concerning the showing of obscene motion pictures.

Getty said he obtained the opinion of C. Morton Goldstein, chairman of the Maryland State Board of Motion Picture Censors, and the Attorney General's office after receiving several complaints from county residents.

The state's attorney said he has received various complaints during the past several months, mainly concerning the showing of "Garden Of Eden," a film depicting life in a nudist colony.

Goldstein advised Getty that the motion picture was granted a license by his department, after the Appelate Division of New York had reversed their department's ruling that the film could not be licensed without the deletion of specific scenes. The Court of Appeals of New York held that the film was not obscene.

Goldstein also noted that the motion picture, "Elysia," a similar movie, was not obscene under the censorship laws of the State of Maryland, as construed by the courts.

The deputy attorney general's office advised Getty that a ruling has been handed down in court as: "Nudity in itself and without lewdness or dirtiness is not obscenity in law or in common sense. It is a false delicacy and mere prudery which would banish from sight all such objects as obscene simply on account of their nudity."

The Attorney General's office advised the censors that the board must act in accordance with its statutory authority and may not refuse to license a film, even though it would like to do so, if as a matter of law, the film is not obscene.

Getty, in commenting on the ruling yesterday, said that although he objects to the showing of this type of picture, banning such a film is beyond his powers.

Local Tavern Owner Fined $500

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday in Circuit Court fined Samuel House, operator of a tavern on Henderson Avenue, $500 on a charge of selling intoxicants to a 20-year-old youth.

House was found not guilty in Trial Magistrates Court of the charge but the state's attorney's office took an appeal. When the case was brought up yesterday House entered the guilty plea.

Harold E. Naughton, attorney for House, informed the court that there had been conflicting testimony in the case in the lower court and that in order to avoid any further trouble his client would plead guilty. House said the youth looked to be 21 years of age and bought a six-pack of beer and left the tavern.

Contractors Invited To Display Goods

Electrical contractors, building contractors, architects and their employes have been invited to attend the second annual "Watts New" residential wiring equipment display, Monday, November 9 at the Potomac Edison Company's service center, Summerfield and Fourth Streets, in South End.

Sponsored by manufacturers' and local distributor representatives of electric wiring equipment and the local power company, this exhibit will feature the latest and newest in electrical wiring equipment and will be on display from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Skelly Reports On Road Complaints

Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, yesterday reported to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on road complaints which he has handled.

A water drainage problem on Cash Valley Road reported by Mrs. Marie Sanders has been eliminated. Skelly said a drain pipe on the opposite side of the road from her property has been causing water to drain on the Sander's property. A screen mesh across one end of the pipe has been removed to allow the water to flow freely through the pipe.

Thomas Moore, who resides on Moore Drive, off Cash Valley Road, was instructed on the specifications which must be followed by property owners on the roadway in order to have it placed in the county system.

County Gets Report On Bond Interest

Commissioner John Tucker Mason reported yesterday to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that $947.17 interest on a $100,000 U. S. Treasury note has been received.

This is another in a group of $100,000 investments in federal securities which has been made by the county. A total of $2,000,000 has been invested and at intervals amounts in the sum of $100,000 are withdrawn to meet current county expenses.

To date a total of $2,961.45 has been received by the county in interest on the Treasury notes.

The board also received the report of William Torkington, certified public accountant, on the LaVale Sanitary Commission audit for the period ending June 30, 1959. The report was signed also by Willard R. Engle, secretary-treasurer of the LaVale group.

The audit shows $50,438.42 in operating funds, $2,877.55 in the bond redemption fund, $9,607.35 in water rents, $694.26 in service charges, $6,250.19 in inventory supplies, $456,051.42 in capital assets, $390,000 in bonds payable, $5,624.37 in accrued interest on bonds, $34,663.50 in notes payable, $7[illegible],675.14 net revenue, (an increase of $4,180.19 over the previous fiscal year), $40,253.46 operating expenses, (an increase of $7,349.51) and $34,421.68 operating income (a decrease of $3,197.52 mainly due to relocating lines and repairs).

Net income of $30,830.59 was $9,509.66 over the previous fiscal year.

A report has been received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on the traffic flow on seven county roads which was made by automatic counters supplied to the county through the Maryland State Roads Commission.

The heaviest traveled of the seven was the Pinto Road over which employes at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory drive to and from work.

A counter at the West Virginia end of the Pinto Road listed 8,984 cars with one day missing out of the week-long record due to a fautly mechanism in the counter. The largest number of cars in the period was 2,091 on October 16.

At the intersection of Pinto Road and McMullen Highway the counter checked 11,164 cars during the week's period. Largest single day of traffic was October 18 with 1,999 cars counted.

The Cash Valley Road counter at the U. S. Route 40 end showed 5,104 cars during the week with 956 cars checked October 18. The Corriganvile intersection of the road had 4,869 cars counted. There were 852 cars checked October 18.

The Pleasant Valley Road counter listed 2,010 cars with 386 being checked October 16.

The Orleans Road (north) had 1,143 cars during the week and 258 on October 21. The Mann Road had 350 cars in the period and 91 on October 25.

The Belle Grove Road counter listed 480 cars with 107 on October 25.

The Orleans Road at the U. S. Route 40 intersection listed 825 cars with 188 on October 25. The same road at Orleans checked 477 cars during the week's period with 107 on October 25.

Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, told the commissioners the traffic count is useful in determining the roadways which need certain specifications of construction and also the justification for road work.

Judge Harris Denies Petition

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris has denied the petition of William Baxter Bailey, of Garrett County, under the Post Conviction Procedure Act whereby he sought his freedom from the House of Correction.

Bailey was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court at Oakland to two years in the House of Correction on two counts of forgery when he was tried August 28. The court had appointed Frederick A. Thayer as counsel for the accused.

In his petition the prisoner raised the following points. That his family is being unfairly punished because of his incarceration, that the informations on which he was tried were not sworn to by the prosecuting witnesses, and that there was no evidence presented in court although the witnesses were present.

Judge Harris in his written opinion stated that "these points are rather frivolous." The first point has no merit whatsoever and the second and third points misinterpret the law, the court ruled.

City To Repair Leaks At Lake Gordon, Koon

City Water Department officials discussed needs at the Lake Gordon and Lake Koon dams at a conference Monday in the office of Commissioner G. Ray Light.

Light said Sanitary Engineer Franklin J. Blaney and Mayor J. Edwin Keech attended the session.

Blaney has been instructed to start repairing all leaks in the main water line leading to the city. The line was checked yesterday and the remainder of the week with repair work probably beginning Monday. Light said it is surprising to learn that thousands of gallons of water are wasted daily through leaks and it was also discovered in a walking tour of the line that some people had built over the water right-of-way. This situation will be remedied also, Light said.

The water officials also plan to meet with a representative of a concrete company to discuss repairs to the face of Lake Koon.

Different needs at the dam will be listed by Blaney, Light said, and they will be taken one at a time. This is aimed at erasing faults found in the water setup. One need is the conversion of all pumping stations to automatic operation so that the operator can tell by guages which reservoir is low on water and the supply can be improved. Information is being obtained on the automatic conversion.

Another item being given top priority, Light said, is a plan to improve water pressure, particularly to those areas which have been complaining of a low supply. This is presently under study, he said.

The city was disappointed that it received only one bid on chlorinators for the filter plant, Light said, and is contacting at least two other companies which might be interested. It is felt that a better price can be obtained under the more competitive situation.

Getty Gets Ruling On Obscene Films

James S. Getty, state's attorney for Allegany County, yesterday received a ruling concerning the showing of obscene motion pictures.

Getty said he obtained the opinion of C. Morton Goldstein, chairman of the Maryland State Board of Motion Picture Censors, and the Attorney General's office after receiving several complaints from county residents.

The state's attorney said he has received various complaints during the past several months, mainly concerning the showing of "Garden Of Eden," a film depicting life in a nudist colony.

Goldstein advised Getty that the motion picture was granted a license by his department, after the Appelate Division of New York had reversed their department's ruling that the film could not be licensed without the deletion of specific scenes. The Court of Appeals of New York held that the film was not obscene.

Goldstein also noted that the motion picture, "Elysia," a similar movie, was not obscene under the censorship laws of the State of Maryland, as construed by the courts.

The deputy attorney general's office advised Getty that a ruling has been handed down in court as: "Nudity in itself and without lewdness or dirtiness is not obscenity in law or in common sense. It is a false delicacy and mere prudery which would banish from sight all such objects as obscene simply on account of their nudity."

The Attorney General's office advised the censors that the board must act in accordance with its statutory authority and may not refuse to license a film, even though it would like to do so, if as a matter of law, the film is not obscene.

Getty, in commenting on the ruling yesterday, said that although he objects to the showing of this type of picture, banning such a film is beyond his powers.

Local Tavern Owner Fined $500

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday in Circuit Court fined Samuel House, operator of a tavern on Henderson Avenue, $500 on a charge of selling intoxicants to a 20-year-old youth.

House was found not guilty in Trial Magistrates Court of the charge but the state's attorney's office took an appeal. When the case was brought up yesterday House entered the guilty plea.

Harold E. Naughton, attorney for House, informed the court that there had been conflicting testimony in the case in the lower court and that in order to avoid any further trouble his client would plead guilty. House said the youth looked to be 21 years of age and bought a six-pack of beer and left the tavern.

Skelly Reports On Road Complaints

Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, yesterday reported to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on road complaints which he has handled.

A water drainage problem on Cash Valley Road reported by Mrs. Marie Sanders has been eliminated. Skelly said a drain pipe on the opposite side of the road from her property has been causing water to drain on the Sander's property. A screen mesh across one end of the pipe has been removed to allow the water to flow freely through the pipe.

Thomas Moore, who resides on Moore Drive, off Cash Valley Road, was instructed on the specifications which must be followed by property owners on the roadway in order to have it placed in the county system.

County Gets Report On Bond Interest

Commissioner John Tucker Mason reported yesterday to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that $947.17 interest on a $100,000 U. S. Treasury note has been received.

This is another in a group of $100,000 investments in federal securities which has been made by the county. A total of $2,000,000 has been invested and at intervals amounts in the sum of $100,000 are withdrawn to meet current county expenses.

To date a total of $2,961.45 has been received by the county in interest on the Treasury notes.

The board also received the report of William Torkington, certified public accountant, on the LaVale Sanitary Commission audit for the period ending June 30, 1959. The report was signed also by Willard R. Engle, secretary-treasurer of the LaVale group.

The audit shows $50,438.42 in operating funds, $2,877.55 in the bond redemption fund, $9,607.35 in water rents, $694.26 in service charges, $6,250.19 in inventory supplies, $456,051.42 in capital assets, $390,000 in bonds payable, $5,624.37 in accrued interest on bonds, $34,663.50 in notes payable, $7[illegible],675.14 net revenue, (an increase of $4,180.19 over the previous fiscal year), $40,253.46 operating expenses, (an increase of $7,349.51) and $34,421.68 operating income (a decrease of $3,197.52 mainly due to relocating lines and repairs).

Net income of $30,830.59 was $9,509.66 over the previous fiscal year.

West Virginians Air Problems Of Aged People

Jobs, Medical Care, Social Security Are Discussed

By CARLO J. SALZANO
(United Press International)

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Plans for better housing programs, improved medical care and more social security benefits for elderly people and for legislation to prohibit employment discrimination because of age were heard Tuesday by a U. S. Senate special subcommittee.

The one-day hearing headed by Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) was the fifth held around the nation by the six - member subcommittee. Three more are scheduled at Grand Rapids, Mich., Miami and Detroit.

After an opening remark by Randolph, State Employment Security Director F. Duane Hill read a statement by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood who was at Sistersville where his father suffered a stroke Monday.

"Programs and policies which tend to impose uniformity should be avoided," Underwood's statement said. He added that the problems of the aging is not the responsibility of any single agency or group or of any one level of government.

National Program Rapped

Describing the national program as "haphazard, hit - or - miss, faulty and seriously inadequate," Randolph said the aim of the subcommittee is to find out what the government and other groups can do to alleviate the problems of the aged.

During a news conference later, Randolph said the general reaction seemed to be that "we can institute programs for the aged beyond just increasing social security and other material benefits."

"Many elderly people have talents and backgrounds which should be developed and not wasted," Randolph told newsmen. "The purpose of the committee is to find ways to coordinate federal, state and private programs for the benefit of the growing population of elderly people."

Among other speakers was Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W. Va.) who charged the Esienhower administration "seems to feel that lip service solves all social problems." Bailey said he hoped that recommendations to be made by the White House Conference on Problems of the Aged in January, 1961, will get more support than did recommendations made by a similar conference on education.

Bailey opposed a general expansion of social security, contrary to the recommendations of Lyle Austin of the State Farm Bureau and Dr. E. Lyle Gage, Bluefield, of the West Virginia Medical Assn.

Miles C. Stanley, president of the West Virginia Labor Federation, urged that Congress enact legislation to provide social security recipients with "a fairly adequate hospital, medical, surgical and nursing program on a prepaid basis."

Weirton Plan Cited

Stanley also recommended the enactment of "effective prohibiting hiring and employment discrimination based on age."

Cecil B. Dodd, manager of industrial relations for Weirton Steel Co., outlined his firm's employe pension and hospitalization plans "to demonstrate the fact that industry in general, and the steel industry in particular, is trying to help in the problems of the aging and aged by providing adequate pensions for their retired employes."

J. Harold Laughlin, presidnet of the West Virginia Hospital Assn., recommended the level of payments of welfare agencies be raised "to meet at least the cost of out-of-pocket expenses of hospitals."

Sociology professor J. T. Richardson of Marshall College said emphasis on youth "has a place in our pattern of living" but that the needs of 16,000,000 men and women over 65 cannot be ignored.

Dr. B. C. Harrington of Davis & Elkins College emphasized the need for "more positive action" in the area of adult education in West Virginia.

W. Va. National Guard Armory Burns At Welch

Lack Of Water Hampers Firemen

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI) — A National Guard armory was destroyed by fire Tuesday two miles outside Welch's city limits. Firemen watched helplessly because of the lack of an available source of water.

The two - story, cinder block building housed Troop G of the 150th Armored Cavalry Regiment. An undetermined quantity of equipment, including M1 and carbine rifles, went up in the flames.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately ascertained. It apparently broke out in the basement and rapidly spread. Within an hour after the fire was reported, the walls of the building collapsed.

Welch firemen had exhausted their only water, from a 500-gallon truck tank, within a few minutes and then concentrated their efforts on keeping the fire from spreading to nearby radio station WELC and underbrush.

Several tanks and trucks parked outside the building were moved onto nearby U. S. 52 and were not damaged.

The building, formerly a night spot, was bought in 1952 by the state and federal government for $75,000 and was converted into an armory. The state share of the cost was some $20,500. It was reported the building was insured for $50,000.

A State Armory board spokesman said extensive remodeling and repairs on the building were planned but had been withheld pending a complete wiring job. The spokesman said the wiring was "very bad" and replacing it would cost $5,000 to $10,000.

Mild October Is Recorded At Frostburg

Indian Summer Is Anticipated

FROSTBURG — Weather in the Frostburg area during the past October was one of the mildest on record. The average temperature was well over normal, in the early part of the month, while the temperature was near normal toward the close of the month according to C. Walter Hayes, weather observer, for the Upper Potomac River Commission.

Rain fell on 14 days of the month, amounting to 5.63 inches. This is 2.42 inches above the normal of 3.21 inches. In October of last year 1.13 inches fell here. The total precipitation of 36.66 inches during the first ten months of this year, is 1.15 inches above the average of 35.51 inches.

The freakish thunderstorm on the night of October 23 gave Frostburg a rainfall of 2.70 inches in 14 hours. The greatest 24-hour rainfall in October was in 1954 when Hurricane Hazel gave Frostburg 5.27 inches.

Hayes, also reported that C. Amer Suter, local observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, said the highest reading of the month occurred on the 6th and 7th when the shade temperature was 86 degrees. West Virginians Air Problems Of Aged People

Jobs, Medical Care, Social Security Are Discussed

By CARLO J. SALZANO
(United Press International)

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Plans for better housing programs, improved medical care and more social security benefits for elderly people and for legislation to prohibit employment discrimination because of age were heard Tuesday by a U. S. Senate special subcommittee.

The one-day hearing headed by Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) was the fifth held around the nation by the six - member subcommittee. Three more are scheduled at Grand Rapids, Mich., Miami and Detroit.

After an opening remark by Randolph, State Employment Security Director F. Duane Hill read a statement by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood who was at Sistersville where his father suffered a stroke Monday.

"Programs and policies which tend to impose uniformity should be avoided," Underwood's statement said. He added that the problems of the aging is not the responsibility of any single agency or group or of any one level of government.

National Program Rapped

Describing the national program as "haphazard, hit - or - miss, faulty and seriously inadequate," Randolph said the aim of the subcommittee is to find out what the government and other groups can do to alleviate the problems of the aged.

During a news conference later, Randolph said the general reaction seemed to be that "we can institute programs for the aged beyond just increasing social security and other material benefits."

"Many elderly people have talents and backgrounds which should be developed and not wasted," Randolph told newsmen. "The purpose of the committee is to find ways to coordinate federal, state and private programs for the benefit of the growing population of elderly people."

Among other speakers was Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W. Va.) who charged the Eisenhower administration "seems to feel that lip service solves all social problems." Bailey said he hoped that recommendations to be made by the White House Conference on Problems of the Aged in January, 1961, will get more support than did recommendations made by a similar conference on education.

Bailey opposed a general expansion of social security, contrary to the recommendations of Lyle Austin of the State Farm Bureau and Dr. E. Lyle Gage, Bluefield, of the West Virginia Medical Assn.

Miles C. Stanley, president of the West Virginia Labor Federation, urged that Congress enact legislation to provide social security recipients with "a fairly adequate hospital, medical, surgical and nursing program on a prepaid basis."

Weirton Plan Cited

Stanley also recommended the enactment of "effective prohibiting hiring and employment discrimination based on age."

Cecil B. Dodd, manager of industrial relations for Weirton Steel Co., outlined his firm's employe pension and hospitalization plans "to demonstrate the fact that industry in general, and the steel industry in particular, is trying to help in the problems of the aging and aged by providing adequate pensions for their retired employes."

J. Harold Laughlin, presidnet of the West Virginia Hospital Assn., recommended the level of payments of welfare agencies be raised "to meet at least the cost of out-of-pocket expenses of hospitals."

Sociology professor J. T. Richardson of Marshall College said emphasis on youth "has a place in our pattern of living" but that the needs of 16,000,000 men and women over 65 cannot be ignored.

Dr. B. C. Harrington of Davis & Elkins College emphasized the need for "more positive action" in the area of adult education in West Virginia.

W. Va. National Guard Armory Burns At Welch

Lack Of Water Hampers Firemen

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI) — A National Guard armory was destroyed by fire Tuesday two miles outside Welch's city limits. Firemen watched helplessly because of the lack of an available source of water.

The two - story, cinder block building housed Troop G of the 150th Armored Cavalry Regiment. An undetermined quantity of equipment, including M1 and carbine rifles, went up in the flames.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately ascertained. It apparently broke out in the basement and rapidly spread. Within an hour after the fire was reported, the walls of the building collapsed.

Welch firemen had exhausted their only water, from a 500-gallon truck tank, within a few minutes and then concentrated their efforts on keeping the fire from spreading to nearby radio station WELC and underbrush.

Several tanks and trucks parked outside the building were moved onto nearby U. S. 52 and were not damaged.

The building, formerly a night spot, was bought in 1952 by the state and federal government for $75,000 and was converted into an armory. The state share of the cost was some $20,500. It was reported the building was insured for $50,000.

A State Armory board spokesman said extensive remodeling and repairs on the building were planned but had been withheld pending a complete wiring job. The spokesman said the wiring was "very bad" and replacing it would cost $5,000 to $10,000.

Mild October Is Recorded At Frostburg

Indian Summer Is Anticipated

FROSTBURG — Weather in the Frostburg area during the past October was one of the mildest on record. The average temperature was well over normal, in the early part of the month, while the temperature was near normal toward the close of the month according to C. Walter Hayes, weather observer, for the Upper Potomac River Commission.

Rain fell on 14 days of the month, amounting to 5.63 inches. This is 2.42 inches above the normal of 3.21 inches. In October of last year 1.13 inches fell here. The total precipitation of 36.66 inches during the first ten months of this year, is 1.15 inches above the average of 35.51 inches.

The freakish thunderstorm on the night of October 23 gave Frostburg a rainfall of 2.70 inches in 14 hours. The greatest 24-hour rainfall in October was in 1954 when Hurricane Hazel gave Frostburg 5.27 inches.

Hayes, also reported that C. Amer Suter, local observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, said the highest reading of the month occurred on the 6th and 7th when the shade temperature was 86 degrees. This was 16 degrees above normal for this date. The lowest night temperature occured on the 29th when the temperature went to a low of 26 degrees, and a killing frost occurred. This was 11 degrees below normal for that date, but not the record low for October. This record low occurred in 1930 with a low of 20 degrees.

The all-time record high reading for October occurred in 1927 when the shade temperature reached 90 degrees. The mildest October of record was in 1915 which exceeded this year by one degree.

County Soil Needs To Be Discussed

Third Session Planned Today

The third session of the Soil and Water Conservation Needs Inventory in Allegany County will be held today at 1:30 p. m. in the office of Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, at the Court House.

Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service office here, said that the overall treatment expected on land by 1975 will be considered.

This will include the treatment of crop land, pasture land, woodland, and other land in the county. Land erosion and excessive water will be among the factors to be aired at the meeting.

There will be a consideration of acres to be treated, the number expected to be treated and whether or not it would be feasible to treat some of the land.

In an initial meeting, county officials adopted an estimate of the number of acres of land in the four categories by juggling figures of the last census and soil survey date figures.

A second meeting was held at which time the shift in land usage by 1975 was discussed. This would include the enlargement of present woodland, cropland to pasture land etc.

The meetings are part of a state-wide program and the findings in the county are presented to the state needs committee for approval.

Expected to attend today's meeting are District Forester William H. Johnson; Beeson Snyder, FHA representative; Stanley Alexander, Western Maryland Wildlife Field Superintendent; Vernon Loar, president of the Allegany County Farm Bureau; Bradye Dolly, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee chairman, and the five District Soil Conservation supervisors.

Baby Sitters Class Expands

Mrs. Eva B. Hogan, assistant director of the City Recreation Department, said yesterday that 50 girls have registered in the Baby Sitters Class being conducted each week by the department, and that more are joining each week.

Yesterday, the fourth week of instruction for the class, Mrs. Hogan showed the baby sitters how to entertain children and babies. The class principally was devoted to "Origami," the Japanese art of paper-folding. Designs and replicas of various objects are made with this method, by folding a square sheet of paper, Mrs. Hogan explained, in conducting the class.

To date the baby sitters have had classes concerning themselves, the care and feeding of babies, first aid and entertainment.

Next week, Mrs. Hogan said, the class will receive instruction on various types of games which can be played to help entertain smaller children.

37,327 Are On County Vote Books

The names of 37,327 eligible voters in Allegany County were on the registration books of the County Board of Election Supervisors the first of this month, it was announced yesterday.

John R. Kelly, chief clerk, said that during October the names of 39 persons who died were stricken from the ledgers and during that month there were 27 persons who registered.

Of the 39 persons who died, 28 were registered as Republicans and 11 registered as Democrats. The 27 new registrants include 14 Republicans and 13 Democrats.

Of the 37,327 persons registered, there are 21,052 Republicans; 16,006 Democrats; 257 Independents; 10 Socialist, and two other parties.

Mr. Kelly said that in October nine persons changed party affiliation. He said six male Republicans decided to re-register as Democrats; one female Republican changed her affiliation to Democrat; one independent male changed to Democrat and one male Democrat re-registered Republican.

Ten persons transferred from one district and precinct to another; six had their names removed by request; and one changed address only.

Those who wish to register in order to vote in the May 17 primary election and November 8 general election next year have until April 16, 1960, to do so, said Mr. Kelly.

Registered voters have until Tuesday, November 17, this year to change party affiliation. Any person becoming 21 on or before November 8, 1960, will be eligible to register and vote in both elections next year.

The Board of Election Supervisors office in the basement of the Court House is open from 9 a. m. until noon and 1 p. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Board Meets Tomorrow

The executive board of the Holy Name Society of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Monastery, according to Rev. DePaul Ripko, OFM Cap., spiritual director.

Chiang Kai-shek And The Mainland

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek celebrates his 72d birthday anniversary Saturday, with no apparent weakening of his resolve to lead the Nationalist government back to the China mainland. In a recent interview (by United Press International, October 19) the exiled President called for help from the West to topple the Peiping regime.

"Unleashed" and "re-leashed" several times since 1953, Chiang currently could not expect the U.S. assistance he would need for a successful invasion. Indeed, it was just one year ago (October 23, 1958) that a joint communique issued by the Generalissimo and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Taipei, Formosa, declared that Nationalist China would not use force to return to the mainland.

The State Department later modified this stance by declaring Chiang has the right to use military force in support of any "large-scale uprising" against the Red regime headed by Mao Tse-tung. The Generalissimo predicted during his recent interview that revolutionary movements "will surely break out one after another" on the mainland.

But it has been 10 years since the Chinese Nationalist Government, then in Chengtu, announced transfer of the capital to Taipei after a bloody civil war. The strong-willed Chiang finds his soldiers growing too old to fight, and the two million mainland evacuees being assimilated by the eight million native Formosans. Chiang himself, bowing slightly to the march of the years, has announced he will not seek re-election as President of Nationalist China when his present term expires May 19, 1960.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Buy American

Senator Fulbright objects to the use of the phrase, "Buy American," because it might offend somebody who wants to sell something in this country that was not made in the United States. Whether we buy American or buy British or Polish, we always seem to offend everybody anyhow. Prime Minister Macmillan, when he was here last, complained about our not buying electrical equipment from Great Britain; the Polish want us to buy Polish hams; the French want us to buy French wines and cognacs but they put a narrow quota on American-made products. It would seem that the United States is always wrong no matter what we do.

Trade became a one way street when the world wanted American dollars, as long as it was the most stable currency. The British worried about the "dollar gap." Laws were passed governing the export of American dollars from most countries, many of which were in economic distress, depending upon American bounty. It is not possible to buy American goods without exporting some American dollars; therefore many countries which were receiving American aid chose not to buy American goods. They hoarded the dollars.

Some of the countries which were helped so graciously are now well off. Great Britain is on her feet. West Germany is economically sound. France is in less economic trouble than she has been in years. One can go among the nations of the world today and find considerable stability.

But the United States is in difficulties. This country is facing an awkward inflationary period. Our gold reserve has been petering out and although the earmarked gold remains in our possession, the beneficial owners of much of it are other countries. The dollar is rapidly depreciating in value.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Robert B. Anderson, has faced this problem most courageously. He has told the trading nations that the value of the dollar must be protected and that restrictions upon trade with the United States must be removed or lessened if the dollar is not to collapse. The British responded favorably to that appeal, particularly the London "Times."

It was recognized in Great Britain that the European countries that are well-off ought to take up some of the burden of caring for the underdeveloped countries.

It is impossible for the United States to continue to permit dollars to pour out over the world. The American dollar is backed by a gold reserve of 25 per cent. If the gold stocks held in Fort Knox are permitted to fall below that guarantee, the value of the dollar will be decreased because its acceptability will be decreased. Countries that demand gold instead of dollars either as grants or in return for commodities thus imperil the value of the dollar.

Why Senator Fulbright should get all excited and find his photograph on the front pages of some newspapers over a mathematical equation that has long been proved is not easily explained unless it be that the learned Senator, who was a Rhodes Scholar, feels more kindly disposed to the good will of dependent nations than to the worth of the American dollar. Be that as it may, the proposal to "Buy American," is sound if the value of the dollar is not to be dissipated under present economic conditions and the attack on the dollar by Soviet economy.

"Buy American" does not mean that no one is to buy alien-made goods. It means that a preference is to be shown to American manufactured and American taxed goods, particularly in letting government contracts. One of the immediate results of the Kaiser agreement in the steel strike will be an increase in the price of certain commodities made of steel and an increased import of steel. Already, for 1959, steel imports have nearly doubled. It is possible for steel imports to increase to a point where they altogether exceed our exports of steel, not in a strike period but as a permanent item of trade. The reason: price.

In business price is always the basic factor—price for a particular commodity in a particular market. When the price of domestic goods is so high that it is cheaper to import, to pay freight and customs charges, then the foreign goods will push the domestic goods out of the American market. And that will hurt labor more than it will management.

Khrushchev Would Have Gotten Kick Out Of Disneyland Visit

By Jack Anderson

LOS ANGELES — After Nikita Khrushchev put up such a wail over having been barred from Disneyland, I decided to take another look at this famous playground which Walt Disney has carved out of an old orange grove just outside Los Angeles.

Actually I didn't really need Khrushchev as an excuse, because my three California grandsons were itching to go.

Anyway, we went—and I really can't blame Khrushchev for being disappointed. I also suspect that the State Department and the Los Angeles police made their biggest mistake in barring him from this combination of fairyland, fantasyland, vacationland and jungleland. He probably would have borrowed Walt Disney to set up a similar children's paradise in Moscow; which would have been very healthy, because nations which put children first think twice before they fight.

Not to gloat over Mr. K because I was able to enjoy what he couldn't, but merely to tell him about the fantasies of Disneyland, here is a firsthand report:

K Would Love It

Submerged in one of Disney's "atomic" submarines. They were built by Todd Shipyard, designed by Adm. Joe Fowler, and look like the real thing. You peer through portholes at sharks, shellfish, even mermaids, a chest of gold spilling out from a wreck which the pirates sunk in the days of the Spanish Main. Very realistic. It revealed no atomic secrets, Mr. K, but you would have loved it. How Disney was able to squeeze acres of water into this playground, some of it under the Matterhorn Monutain, is more mysterious to me than an atomic submarine. And how he got the water in arid Southern California is perhaps a greater one.

Tobogganed down Mount Matterhorn. This has all the thrill of a Coney Island shoot-the-chute, only more scenic. You shoot through the inside of a mountain, then down the outside, ride under the spray of a 50-foot waterfall, watch live Swiss mountain climbers scaling the peak. My grandsons insisted on three toboggan trips down the mountain. Maybe you would have enjoyed that many, Mr. K, but for me one was enough . . . Rode around Disneyland in the monorail. This one-rail streamliner which circles breathlessly over thousands of people with several score passengers inside, is old hat to Europeans. The Germans invented it. But if Washington, D. C., was not asleep at the switch it would use the monorail instead of tearing up acres and acres of historic streets designed by L'Enfant in George Washington's day. Other cities could use it to carry passengers out to distant outlying airports.

Detail Perfect

Traveled on the Santa Fe Disneyland railroad through Grand Canyon — deep, realistic replica of the great gash in Arizona; mountain lions in the trees alongside the canyon; also coyotes, a rattlesnake, prairie dogs . . . Disney is a man for detail. The conductor and brakeman wear the exact uniforms and insignia of the Santa Fe Railroad—vests open on a hot day. About 3,800 people staff Disneyland in the peak summer months, many of them college professors, high school teachers and college students. One school principal who put my youngsters into the miniature auto races has been working there four years. He works weekends in the winter . . . A small army of gardeners keep the petunias, the marigolds, the red hot poker, the baby's breath looking as immaculate as the royal gardens of the Queen of England. Streets and sidewalks lined with beauty are conducive to neatness. People don't throw chewing-gum wrappers among the flowers.

You would have got quite a kick out of jungleland, Mr. K. The jungle guide steers a boat through tropical waters with orchids and jungle mist dripping over your head. A hippo comes up under the boat, the guide shoots him. An alligator teaches its baby how to swim. A python is in a tree overhead. Two giant gorillas roar as the boat passes, a lion jumps on a zebra, an elephant lunges at the boat. My five-year-old grandson had his heart in his mouth—even though he knew the animals were made of plastic and were mechanized to lunge and roar at every boat passing though those jungle waters.

Then there's the Main Street of Disneyland—the stores, the golden horse shoe, the theatre, the old-fashioned photo studio, the swift emporium—every detail reminiscent of the gay nineties. You would have enjoyed this bit of American history, Mr. K, including the cracker barrels in Swift's store, the pot-bellied stove, the chairs around it, the kegs of cider, the ancient coffee grinder, and the wall-telephones. If you take down the receiver you hear two women gossiping on the party line as they used to do interminably when almost everyone had a party line. Walt Disney has even put this on a recording for you to hear in Swift's store.

Enjoyed By All

All sorts of people come to Disneyland — from Harry Truman, to the crown prince of Ethiopia, to French Ambassador Herve Alphand, to the men of the Brazilian navy, who were much in evidence when we were there. On your next trip to the USA, we hope the Los Angeles police will let you come, Mr. K. You'll enjoy every bit of it—including the sign over the Disneyland hotel: "Parents without children are not welcome," and the other sign near the entrance: "Lost parents apply here for children."

A lot of Americans liked the fact that you brought your children over to see us, Mr. K. And we know you'll enjoy President Eisenhower's grandchildren. If we could just leave things to the kids, there wouldn't be any more wars. So I hope next time you come you'll see American children—and some who aren't children any more but still like to be young—relax at Disneyland.

Or why don't you write Walt Disney to create a duplicate for you in Moscow?

McKinley's Words Are Significant Today

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—It is often said that "history repeats itself," which may be only another way of saying that unsolved problems bob up again and again.

Thus today the important talk among the free governments of the world is about the removal of trade restrictions and barriers to commerce. The United States is losing gold because much money is being sent abroad for "foreign aid" while the other countries aren't buying enough goods from America. This has led to a "Buy American" crusade and it is being suggested that money appropriated for "foreign aid" be spent largely in the United States for goods needed by the beneficiaries of the program.

Already also, many companies in this country that make steel and machine tools are complaining about tariffs being too low. Likewise, the AFL-CIO is being urged to go back to the policies of the late Samuel Gompers, who founded the American Federation of Labor and who for years backed a platform of protective tariffs. Steel unions today know that imported steel is coming in to the United States at low prices because of cheaper labor abroad and this threatens to deprive American workers of jobs.

What is conservatism and what is liberalism in such controversies? Too often history is ignored by the younger generations and maybe that's why today a favorite cliche of many who regard themselves as liberals is to characterize any conservative with whom they disagree as being "to the right of McKinley." This implies that McKinley was the archdeacon of conservatism when the truth is he was one of the first to fight against "isolationism" and in favor of reciprocity in world trade which is nowadays supposed to be "liberal" doctrine.

There happens to be a book out today entitled "In The Days Of McKinley," and written by the noted author, Margaret Leech, which has in it a passage referring to the significant speech delivered by President McKinley at Buffalo, N. Y., the day before he was assassinated in September, 1901. It reads as follows:

"Two themes were interwoven in the President's forcible recommendation of a broad and enlightened policy of commercial reciprocity: the unity of the modern world and the 'almost appalling' prosperity of the United States. Distance, he reminded his hearers, had been effaced by the telegraph and cable, by swift ships and fast trains. A larger share of the world's business was the urgent need of an enormous and diversified production that far exceeded the demands of home consumption. No narrow, sordid policy would subserve this vast and intricate business. He said: 'We must not repose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything and buy little or nothing.'

"Reciprocity treaties were in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation were in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation were not. In phrase after ringing emphatic phrase, the President pointed to the trend of the future: 'isolation is no longer possible or desirable. . . . God and man have linked the nations together. . . . The period of exclusiveness is past.'"

These same words could well have been used last week by the Under Secretary of State, Douglas Dillon, as he was telling an international gathering that restrictions on American trade imposed by foreign countries—which means quotas and other limitations on American exports—ought to be reduced or removed.

While the dollar situation is not acute, American officials see the importance of beginning now to agitate for a reversal of the unfavorable trend in our foreign trade. Other nations which have been helped by America's post-war program are sufficiently strong now to let their peoples buy more from the United States. If our export trade increases, foreign countries will have to use up some of the gold they have on deposit here and the United States wil not be sending as much gold abroad as heretofore. This would be healthier all around.

It is important for foreign countries to note that American officials have started the debate about foreign trade restrictions not a moment too soon. For there is building up inside the United States quite a substantial sentiment in favor of restoring some of the tariffs that were reduced or eliminated when the reciprocal trade movement got its real momentum under the late Cordell Hull, Secretary of State in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The whole problem of reciprocity in world trade is the same in principle as it was nearly 60 years ago but there has never been anything more persuasive said by any present-day exponent of increased foreign trade than the words of President McKinley: "We must not repose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything and buy little or nothing."

Today, however, the shoe is on the other foot and strangely enough the above quotation now might better be sponsored by most of the other governments of the world in respect to their own policies. They will have to import more goods from the United States if a balance of trade is to be attained that is healthy for all concerned.

NEW APPROACH — Disarmament, long a key item in American efforts to ease cold war tensions, has at last come into its own as a popular topic for discussion and negotiations.

Through much of the post-World War II period, the U. S. has vainly sought for some avenue to open fruitful negotiations on the subject. It has worked through the United Nations, private big power talks, conferences and meetings.

The Russian approach to the problem is simple — she will consent to no agreement which does not increase her relative strength in comparison with the West.

What the West wants is an agreement on disarmament which will reduce East-West military strength evenly and under conditions guaranteeing fulfillment.

We will start anywhere—in outer space, in the skies over Europe, in a demilitarized zone, in conditions to prevent surprise attack, at the nuclear weapons level — anything. The United States feels that the smallest beginning will be a really long step toward peace if it can demonstrate the sincerity of both sides.

Now the disarmament focus is on Antarctica. The 12 nations which co-operated in the International Geophysical Year program are trying to draft an agreement for continued scientific operations in the area under a guarantee of continued demilitarization. In a continuation of the "spirit of Camp David," the Russians appear to be co-operating.

Perhaps the cold war thaw will begin in the Land of Eternal Ice.

Giving Ailing Oldsters Something To Do

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many elderly persons in mental hospitals are in need of something to do. They are not ill enough to be confined behind locked doors nor well enough to compete with the hustle and bustle of industry. Dr. Edward S. Stern, of the Central Mental hospital of Warwick, England, may have the solution to the problem.

He calls his plan Operation Rip Van Winkle. It is aimed at the individual who has been institutionalized so long "the world has changed since he became ill." Over the years, Dr. Stern has built several units adjacent to the hospital, where certain patients are rehabilitated in preparation for discharge.

The industrial unit was the first to be built. It was an old corrugated iron shed. Simple electrical dismantling was done to encourage lost manual dexterity. By the end of three years, 65 men and 18 women had entered the unit, none over age 60. Of this group, 25 men and 4 women were discharged to outside homes and employment.

The domestic unit was next. It was designed for the ex-housewife and resembled a home with kitchen, pantry, bedroom, sitting room, and out of door garden. The women did ordinary household chores. The bright faces of these patients offered ample proof that it was a happy place. The melancholics became more cheerful as they returned to a feminine role.

In time, something had to be found for women clerical workers. A commercial unit was established resembling an office, with typewriters, duplicators, and other machines. Hours were 9:30 to 3:45 p. m., five days a week, with the usual break for luncheon. Here, too, the depressed became happy because they had regained a purpose in life.

The last unit was for handyman training. These patients soon were in demand for helping with the thousand and one chores in various trade departments of the institution. They even built a greenhouse from discard materials and used ingenuity in constructing a forcing bed over buried hot water mains.

Man—sound or ailing—yearns to feel wanted and needed to his dying day.

Only when the surgeon finds it necessary to make an artificial opening in the abdominal wall through which the intestinal contents can escape (colostomy). This is done to by-pass the infected bowel until healing occurs. Thereafter, the colostomy is closed and the sac is removed.

Yes. He may be allergic to some ingredient in the dentures or in the product he uses to keep them clean or in place.

Resting the part in a splint or cast promotes healing.

Chiang Kai-shek And The Mainland

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek celebrates his 72d birthday anniversary Saturday, with no apparent weakening of his resolve to lead the Nationalist government back to the China mainland. In a recent interview (by United Press International, October 19) the exiled President called for help from the West to topple the Peiping regime.

"Unleashed" and "re-leashed" several times since 1953, Chiang currently could not expect the U.S. assistance he would need for a successful invasion. Indeed, it was just one year ago (October 23, 1958) that a joint communique issued by the Generalissimo and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Taipei, Formosa, declared that Nationalist China would not use force to return to the mainland.

The State Department later modified this stance by declaring Chiang has the right to use military force in support of any "large-scale uprising" against the Red regime headed by Mao Tse-tung. The Generalissimo predicted during his recent interview that revolutionary movements "will surely break out one after another" on the mainland.

But it has been 10 years since the Chinese Nationalist Government, then in Chengtu, announced transfer of the capital to Taipei after a bloody civil war. The strong-willed Chiang finds his soldiers growing too old to fight, and the two million mainland evacuees being assimilated by the eight million native Formosans. Chiang himself, bowing slightly to the march of the years, has announced he will not seek re-election as President of Nationalist China when his present term expires May 19, 1960.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Buy American

Senator Fulbright objects to the use of the phrase, "Buy American," because it might offend somebody who wants to sell something in this country that was not made in the United States. Whether we buy American or buy British or Polish, we always seem to offend everybody anyhow. Prime Minister Macmillan, when he was here last, complained about our not buying electrical equipment from Great Britain; the Polish want us to buy Polish hams; the French want us to buy French wines and cognacs but they put a narrow quota on American-made products. It would seem that the United States is always wrong no matter what we do.

Trade became a one way street when the world wanted American dollars, as long as it was the most stable currency. The British worried about the "dollar gap." Laws were passed governing the export of American dollars from most countries, many of which were in economic distress, depending upon American bounty. It is not possible to buy American goods without exporting some American dollars; therefore many countries which were receiving American aid chose not to buy American goods. They hoarded the dollars.

Some of the countries which were helped so graciously are now well off. Great Britain is on her feet. West Germany is economically sound. France is in less economic trouble than she has been in years. One can go among the nations of the world today and find considerable stability.

But the United States is in difficulties. This country is facing an awkward inflationary period. Our gold reserve has been petering out and although the earmarked gold remains in our possession, the beneficial owners of much of it are other countries. The dollar is rapidly depreciating in value.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Robert B. Anderson, has faced this problem most courageously. He has told the trading nations that the value of the dollar must be protected and that restrictions upon trade with the United States must be removed or lessened if the dollar is not to collapse. The British responded favorably to that appeal, particularly the London "Times."

It was recognized in Great Britain that the European countries that are well-off ought to take up some of the burden of caring for the underdeveloped countries.

It is impossible for the United States to continue to permit dollars to pour out over the world. The American dollar is backed by a gold reserve of 25 per cent. If the gold stocks held in Fort Knox are permitted to fall below that guarantee, the value of the dollar will be decreased because its acceptability will be decreased. Countries that demand gold instead of dollars either as grants or in return for commodities thus imperil the value of the dollar.

Why Senator Fulbright should get all excited and find his photograph on the front pages of some newspapers over a mathematical equation that has long been proved is not easily explained unless it be that the learned Senator, who was a Rhodes Scholar, feels more kindly disposed to the good will of dependent nations than to the worth of the American dollar. Be that as it may, the proposal to "Buy American," is sound if the value of the dollar is not to be dissipated under present economic conditions and the attack on the dollar by Soviet economy.

"Buy American" does not mean that no one is to buy alien-made goods. It means that a preference is to be shown to American manufactured and American taxed goods, particularly in letting government contracts. One of the immediate results of the Kaiser agreement in the steel strike will be an increase in the price of certain commodities made of steel and an increased import of steel. Already, for 1959, steel imports have nearly doubled. It is possible for steel imports to increase to a point where they altogether exceed our exports of steel, not in a strike period but as a permanent item of trade. The reason: price.

In business price is always the basic factor—price for a particular commodity in a particular market. When the price of domestic goods is so high that it is cheaper to import, to pay freight and customs charges, then the foreign goods will push the domestic goods out of the American market. And that will hurt labor more than it will management.

Khrushchev Would Have Gotten Kick Out Of Disneyland Visit

By Jack Anderson

LOS ANGELES — After Nikita Khrushchev put up such a wail over having been barred from Disneyland, I decided to take another look at this famous playground which Walt Disney has carved out of an old orange grove just outside Los Angeles.

Actually I didn't really need Khrushchev as an excuse, because my three California grandsons were itching to go.

Anyway, we went—and I really can't blame Khrushchev for being disappointed. I also suspect that the State Department and the Los Angeles police made their biggest mistake in barring him from this combination of fairyland, fantasyland, vacationland and jungleland. He probably would have borrowed Walt Disney to set up a similar children's paradise in Moscow; which would have been very healthy, because nations which put children first think twice before they fight.

Not to gloat over Mr. K because I was able to enjoy what he couldn't, but merely to tell him about the fantasies of Disneyland, here is a firsthand report:

K Would Love It

Submerged in one of Disney's "atomic" submarines. They were built by Todd Shipyard, designed by Adm. Joe Fowler, and look like the real thing. You peer through portholes at sharks, shellfish, even mermaids, a chest of gold spilling out from a wreck which the pirates sunk in the days of the Spanish Main. Very realistic. It revealed no atomic secrets, Mr. K, but you would have loved it. How Disney was able to squeeze acres of water into this playground, some of it under the Matterhorn Monutain, is more mysterious to me than an atomic submarine. And how he got the water in arid Southern California is perhaps a greater one.

Tobogganed down Mount Matterhorn. This has all the thrill of a Coney Island shoot-the-chute, only more scenic. You shoot through the inside of a mountain, then down the outside, ride under the spray of a 50-foot waterfall, watch live Swiss mountain climbers scaling the peak. My grandsons insisted on three toboggan trips down the mountain. Maybe you would have enjoyed that many, Mr. K, but for me one was enough . . . Rode around Disneyland in the monorail. This one-rail streamliner which circles breathlessly over thousands of people with several score passengers inside, is old hat to Europeans. The Germans invented it. But if Washington, D. C., was not asleep at the switch it would use the monorail instead of tearing up acres and acres of historic streets designed by L'Enfant in George Washington's day. Other cities could use it to carry passengers out to distant outlying airports.

Detail Perfect

Traveled on the Santa Fe Disneyland railroad through Grand Canyon — deep, realistic replica of the great gash in Arizona; mountain lions in the trees alongside the canyon; also coyotes, a rattlesnake, prairie dogs . . . Disney is a man for detail. The conductor and brakeman wear the exact uniforms and insignia of the Santa Fe Railroad—vests open on a hot day. About 3,800 people staff Disneyland in the peak summer months, many of them college professors, high school teachers and college students. One school principal who put my youngsters into the miniature auto races has been working there four years. He works weekends in the winter . . . A small army of gardeners keep the petunias, the marigolds, the red hot poker, the baby's breath looking as immaculate as the royal gardens of the Queen of England. Streets and sidewalks lined with beauty are conducive to neatness. People don't throw chewing-gum wrappers among the flowers.

You would have got quite a kick out of jungleland, Mr. K. The jungle guide steers a boat through tropical waters with orchids and jungle mist dripping over your head. A hippo comes up under the boat, the guide shoots him. An alligator teaches its baby how to swim. A python is in a tree overhead. Two giant gorillas roar as the boat passes, a lion jumps on a zebra, an elephant lunges at the boat. My five-year-old grandson had his heart in his mouth—even though he knew the animals were made of plastic and were mechanized to lunge and roar at every boat passing though those jungle waters.

Then there's the Main Street of Disneyland—the stores, the golden horse shoe, the theatre, the old-fashioned photo studio, the swift emporium--every detail reminiscent of the gay nineties. You would have enjoyed this bit of American history, Mr. K, including the cracker barrels in Swift's store, the pot-bellied stove, the chairs around it, the kegs of cider, the ancient coffee grinder, and the wall-telephones. If you take down the receiver you hear two women gossiping on the party line as they used to do interminably when almost everyone had a party line. Walt Disney has even put this on a recording for you to hear in Swift's store.

Enjoyed By All

All sorts of people come to Disneyland — from Harry Truman, to the crown prince of Ethiopia, to French Ambassador Herve Alphand, to the men of the Brazilian navy, who were much in evidence when we were there. On your next trip to the USA, we hope the Los Angeles police will let you come, Mr. K. You'll enjoy every bit of it—including the sign over the Disneyland hotel: "Parents without children are not welcome," and the other sign near the entrance: "Lost parents apply here for children."

A lot of Americans liked the fact that you brought your children over to see us, Mr. K. And we know you'll enjoy President Eisenhower's grandchildren. If we could just leave things to the kids, there wouldn't be any more wars. So I hope next time you come you'll see American children—and some who aren't children any more but still like to be young—relax at Disneyland.

Or why don't you write Walt Disney to create a duplicate for you in Moscow?

Giving Ailing Oldsters Something To Do

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many elderly persons in mental hospitals are in need of something to do. They are not ill enough to be confined behind locked doors nor well enough to compete with the hustle and bustle of industry. Dr. Edward S. Stern, of the Central Mental hospital of Warwick, England, may have the solution to the problem.

He calls his plan Operation Rip Van Winkle. It is aimed at the individual who has been institutionalized so long "the world has changed since he became ill." Over the years, Dr. Stern has built several units adjacent to the hospital, where certain patients are rehabilitated in preparation for discharge.

The industrial unit was the first to be built. It was an old corrugated iron shed. Simple electrical dismantling was done to encourage lost manual dexterity. By the end of three years, 65 men and 18 women had entered the unit, none over age 60. Of this group, 25 men and 4 women were discharged to outside homes and employment.

The domestic unit was next. It was designed for the ex-housewife and resembled a home with kitchen, pantry, bedroom, sitting room, and out of door garden. The women did ordinary household chores. The bright faces of these patients offered ample proof that it was a happy place. The melancholics became more cheerful as they returned to a feminine role.

In time, something had to be found for women clerical workers. A commercial unit was established resembling an office, with typewriters, duplicators, and other machines. Hours were 9:30 to 3:45 p. m., five days a week, with the usual break for luncheon. Here, too, the depressed became happy because they had regained a purpose in life.

The last unit was for handyman training. These patients soon were in demand for helping with the thousand and one chores in various trade departments of the institution. They even built a greenhouse from discard materials and used ingenuity in constructing a forcing bed over buried hot water mains.

Man — sound or ailing—yearns to feel wanted and needed to his dying day.

Try And Stop Me

COLON OPERATION

E. K. writes: Do you have to wear a sac in the side after an operation for a burst diverticulum?

Only when the surgeon finds it necessary to make an artificial opening in the abdominal wall through which the intestinal contents can escape (colostomy). This is done to by-pass the infected bowel until healing occurs. Thereafter, the colostomy is closed and the sac is removed.

Turnbull played for Johns Hopkins and captained the team which played in the 1932 Olympics. He was killed while flying over Germany in 1944 at the age of 34.

One-Man Track Team Campers Vs. Ft. Hill Trojans Cop Big One Laurel In Trouble

By C. V. BURNS

PAUL HEYDRICK, who will be remembered as the "one-man track team" when he attended Potomac State College at Keyser in the 1920s, is among the athletes of yesteryear being mentioned for the West Virginia Sports Writers' Hall of Fame.

Charleston's Civic Center has been designated as the permanent home of the Hall of Fame.

Heydrick once was voted the greatest athlete in Charleston High School's history. He later starred at Potomac State, Kiski Prep and the University of Tennesee.

Paul used to participate in as many as eight events in one afternoon and often outscored entire teams. There never has been any track or field athlete his equal around this section.

The aluminum plaques for the Hall of Fame cost $340 each. A credit plate bearing the name of the donor will accompany each plaque.

Such greats from West Virginia as Cam Henderson, Ira Rodgers, "Gip" Battles, "Greasy" Neale, Cebe Ross, Joe Stydaher, "Hack" Wilson, Jesse Burkett, Big Sleepy Glenn and Lee Patton are others certain to be honored by plaques in the Hall of Fame.

JOHNSTOWN High School won a football game Friday night that attracted wide attention in the Keystone State.

The Trojans extended their two-year winning streak to 19 games by beating Altoona High, an ancient foe, by the score of 13-6 before 15,000 people at The Point Stadium in Johnstown.

Altoona had averaged about 40 points a game and enjoyed a 7-0 record before going down for the first time this season.

Johnstown won eleven games last year and is 8-0 for the current campaign.

ALLEGANY High School is leading the C.V.A.L. for the first time since that circuit was revived in 1956 but did you know the Campers won or shared the title six times during the 16 years they were in the old C.V.A.L. from 1928 to 1943.

Campobello teams won in 1938, 1939, 1941 and 1942, tied with Waynesboro and Handley in 1934 and deadlocked Waynesboro in 1936.

Charles "Rip" Engle, now coach of Penn State's undefeated team, tutored Waynesboro grid and basketball teams in the 1930s.

Bert Harbert was at the helm at Allegany in 1934. Herman Ball, now line coach for the Baltimore Colts, led the Campers the other five years they finished on top.

THREE WEEKS from tomorrow Allegany and Fort Hill will clash in their twenty-fourth Thanksgiving Day game for the city football championship.

The Sentinels hold a 12-9 edge in wins. Two games ended in ties.

Overall this will be the 27th meeting of these schools on the gridiron. Fort Hill has won 14, Allegany 9, and three games were even-Stephen affairs. They met twice in 1944, 1945 and 1946.

Allegany's last victory was 14 years ago. Since the 1945 loss, Fort Hill has won 11 out of 13 contests. The 1948 and 1953 games were ties.

FOR YEARS Baltimore turf writers have needled the state's half milers but the minor tracks now can have a chuckle after reading what Norman P. Clark wrote the other day in the Baltimore News-Post about Laurel, considered a major racing oval.

"Take yesterday's program at Laurel," Clark wrote. "The first four races were for maidens. Unless a man has an outright hatred for money or has no iota of knowledge of horse racing, he will not bet on these winless monsters. One such outrage on a racing card is enough. Four is way out of bounds."

Keyser, Moorefield Favored To Defeat Romney And LaSalle

Keyser High School will defeat Romney High School by the score of 25-0 on Saturday and remain in the running for the West Virginia Class AA title, according to Bill Barrett, United Press International sports writer of Charleston.

In another Class AA contest, undefeated Charles Town High's Panthers are picked to defeat Harpers Ferry by the score of 21-0.

Moorefield is a 14-0 choice over LaSalle and West Virginia School for the Deaf figures to beat Mt. Airy School for the Deaf of Philadelphia, 32-14.

Frederick's Cadets are a 14-0 choice over the Martinsburg Bulldogs while on the intercollegiate front Jesse Riggleman's Shepherd College Rams are a 21-7 choice over Bridgewater, Va., College.

"Chuck" Bradfield, left halfback, scored three of his team's four touchdowns and accounted for one of the three conversions as Keyser High School's junior varsity gridders defeated LaSalle High's Jayvees here yesterday by the score of 27-0.

The win enabled the Mineral Countians to sweep their series with the Little Explorers and make their season record 6-3-1. Romney will be met in the final game Monday at Romney.

Bradfield scored in the first quarter from the two and also ran the extra point. A fumble by LaSalle late in the opening stanza set up Keyser's second score which Bradfield made on a four-yard run early in the second period. Scott Biser made the conversion on an end run.

Biser climaxed a 60-yard drive in the third period by slamming over from the three and Jim Whitlach added the point.

Bradfield, a freshman from Burlington, ran 40 yards for Keyser's fourth td late in the third quarter.

FRIDAY GAMES
Beall at Bruce
Flintstone at Mt. Savage

Valley High School's seven-year 52-game string without a defeat ended yesterday when Beall High School handed the seven times champions of the W. M. I. Soccer League a 4-3 setback at Frostburg.

Since Valley came into the league in 1953 it had whipped Beall 13 consecutive times prior to yesterday's defeat in the Mountain City. The Black Knights long string had included 42 victories and 10 defeats since early in the 1953 campaign when they lost at Flintstone.

Bobby Brown Injured

Valley not only saw its long victory string shattered in its final game of the season but lost the services of Bobby Brown, halfback, who suffered a fractured collarbone when he fell on his shoulder following a collision with a Beall player in the final period. Brown, the only regular holdover from Valley's state Class B championship basketball team, was taken to Miners Hospital.

The teams battled to a 1-1 draw in the opening quarter when Allan Abbott, of Valley, and Jim Duncan, of Beall, booted field goals. Brown missed a penalty shot before the period ended.

Danny Young scored a field goal in the second quarter to give the Knights a 2-1 edge at intermission.

Jim Pollock scored on a pass from Ravenscroft to make it 3-1 as the third stanza got under way but Jim Duncan later blasted through a penalty goal to reduce the champions' lead to a single point.

Duncan's Goal Wins

Gilbert Carter's goal enabled Beall to knot the count at 3-all early in the final period and with 5½ minutes remaining Duncan's third goal of the game registered when the ball struck one of the uprights and bounded into the net.

Outstanding players were Milburn Spiker, Duncan, Fred Hall and Carter of Beall, and Roger Wilson, Larry McKenzie, Wayne Johnson and Pollock of Valley.

By scoring three goals in yesterday's game Duncan forged into first place in the individual scoring race with nine points to his credit. Dale Hott, of Mt. Savage, is runner-up with seven markers.

Coach Edward Finzel of Beall was tossed into the shower by his players after the game. He remarked that he didn't mind getting a soaking when his team won.

Aggies Upset Bruce

The second upset of the day occurred at Flintstone where Orville "Stony" Jackson's Flintstone Aggies broke a six-game losing streak by spilling Bruce High School's Bulldogs, 2 to 1.

Paul Barnes scored a field goal in the first period and Reed Clingerman gave Flintstone a 2-0 edge in the third quarter by booting a fielder after missing a penalty goal.

Russell Raines connected for Bruce's lone tally on a direct corner kick in the final period.

Final games of the season are scheduled for Friday.

Mountaineers Pick Syracuse To Win

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)—West Virginia University football players to a man picked Syracuse to whip Penn State in the battle of the unbeaten teams at University Park, Pa. next Saturday. WVU lost to seventh-ranked Penn State 28-10 last Saturday, and fourth-ranked Syracuse 44-0 the week before.

Buffalo 7th City To Join Grid League

Lands American Loop Franchise

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Wismer, member of the new American Football League's expansion committee, said Tuesday that Ralph C. Wilson Jr., of Detroit had definitely decided to locate a franchise in Buffalo, N.Y.

Buffalo is the seventh city in the new professional league which plans to start operations in 1960 with eight teams.

Officials of the league met here last Wednesday and awarded a franchise to Wilson. Wilson said at that time Buffalo was his probable choice for location of the franchise.

Wismer said an eighth city would be selected from Boston, Philadelphia, Kansas City, St. Louis, Cincinnati or New Orleans.

In addition to Buffalo, cities in the league are New York, Los Angeles, Dallas, Houston, Minneapolis-St. Paul, and Denver.

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI)—Wheatley Stable's High Bid, after breaking fifth in a field of seven 3-year-old fillies, defeated Royal Native by five lengths Tuesday in the $27,950 Jersey Belle stakes at Garden State Park.

Victory in the mile and one-sixteenth race was achieved after High Bid overtook Royal Native going into the stretch and then drew away to finish the event in 1:42 3-5.

Geechee Lou, making a belated bid, was another 2½ lengths back in third place.

High Bid, who earned a winner's purse of $17,842, paid $7.00, $3.20 and $2.20 to his backers in the election day crowd of 26,766. Royal Native returned $2.60 and $2.20 as the favorite while Geechee Lou paid $2.40.

California May Break With USC

Injuries Put Bates Out For The Season

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Tribune hinted Tuesday the University of California might break off athletic relations with the University of Southern California over the injury of California halfback Steve Bates last Saturday.

California's coach Pete Elliott has charged that USC linesman Mike McKeever deliberately injured Bates while the back was lying out of bounds. Bates is hospitalized with facial injuries and is expected to be out for the season.

The next move in the Mike McKeever-Steve Bates incident is up to USC President Dr. Norman Topping," sportswriter Ed Schoenfeld wrote in the Tribune.

"Authoritative sources reported today that unless Dr. Topping takes immediate punitive action in the matter, University of California will act on its own, perhaps even breaking off athletic relations with the Trojans.

"This was evident after the sources reported that Dr. Topping and UC President Dr. Clark Kerr held a secret meeting yesterday on the Berkeley campus.

Dr. Topping and Dr. Kerr reportedly each had their own films of the California-USC game, which USC won 14-7.

"From all indications, the Berkeley administration is ready to back Coach Elliott to the hilt in his charges of foul play by the Trojans," Schoenfeld said. As one man close to the UC picture put it:

"They're angry. Unless USC does something in a hurry to clean up this mess, California will act. Break relations? Entirely possible."

Owls Club Wins, 2-1

The Owls Club won two out of three games from the Hi Dee Bar in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. Allen Miller paced the winners with 19 points and P. Drew was high scorer for Hi Dee Bar with 16 markers.

Soccer Referees' Plan Works OK

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslav soccer referees, tired of being pushed around by athletes protesting their decisions, got together and worked out a plan.

A referee named Nikolic was the first to put it in effect. Sunday, in a match at Sabac, a protesting player rushed up to Nikolic and slapped him twice.

Nickolic took the first slap, took the second — then calmly knocked the player unconscious with a right to the jaw.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Cotton Bowl at Dallas may wind up with the year's best post-season football game on Jan. 1.

The bowl candidates are shaping up fast with the 1959 season slipping into November and what could be sweeter—if all goes well—than Texas vs. Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl?

On its last trip to Dallas, Syracuse with versatile Jimmy Brown wowed 'em in a 28-27 loser to Texas Christian on New Year's Day, 1957. This year's Syracuse team is even better than the Jimmy Brown special and undoubtedly would be welcomed back if the Orange proves its stuff against Penn State this Saturday.

If Syracuse and Penn State play a close one, both the winner and the loser are likely to be much in demand for bowl bids. Like Syracuse, Penn State took care of itself in its one Cotton Bowl shot tying Southern Methodist 13-13 in the 1948 game.

Here's a guess on the lineup:

Rose Bowl — Northwestern vs. Washington.

Cotton Bowl—Texas vs. Syracuse.

Sugar Bowl—Louisiana State vs. Clemson or Mississippi.

Orange Bowl—Kansas vs. Penn State.

Gator Bowl—Georgia Tech or Mississippi vs. Air Force.

The Sugar Bowl at New Orleans may have to wrestle with more problems than usual to insure an attractive game.

Last year it had Louisiana State's national champs against Clemson of the Atlantic Coast Conference in what turned out to be one of the day's less spectacular games. The same pair shapes up as logical choices again this year.

Actually, the Sugar Bowlers couldn't do any better than setting up an unprecedented re-play of last week's LSU-Mississippi thriller, won by LSU, 7-3. But would they?

And until further clarification, it's doubtful if New Orleans would invite a team with three Negro stars—namely, Syracuse.

A Rose Bowl natural would be the Big Ten champ—probably Northwestern — against those Southern California bone-breakers. But Southern Cal is in the NCAA's penalty box at the moment and is ineligible. Washington, a seven point loser to Southern California, is a good bet to represent the West.

Kansas, winner over Nebraska and Iowa State and a one-point loser to Oklahoma, looks good for the Orange Bowl for which Oklahoma is ineligible.

If the Gator Bowl lands Mississippi it'll take some dickering to provide a suitable opponent. Arkansas of the Southwest Conference might be a candidate for a bid against anyone but Mississippi—since Ole Miss rocked Arkansas 28-0 a couple of weeks back. But the Air Force might give the Rebs a tussle.

Mountaineers Face 3d Unbeaten Team

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia University's football team held a 30 - minute scrimmage Tuesday. Most of the time was spent running plays against Southern California defensive alignments.

The Mountaineers are 21 point underdogs. Southern California will be the third consecutive unbeaten team they have faced.

Flanagan Is Loser

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Samart Sorndaeng of Bangkok Tuesday night scored an upset 10-round decision over veteran Del Flanagan of St. Paul. Samart weighed 150, a pound less than the American.

Lenore Kight Wingard Voted Into Maryland Hall Of Fame

ROYAL RETURN - - - - - By Alan Maver

Aquatic Star, Three Others Are Selected

"Bozey" Berger, Turnbull, George Also Honored

COLLEGE PARK (AP) — The late John I. Turnbull of Baltimore County, Joseph M. George of Sudlersville, Louis Bozey Berger and Mrs. Lenore Kight Wingard of Frostburg were named today to the Maryland Hall of Fame for athletes.

Mrs. Wingard

The formal inductions will be made at the annual banquet Dec. 5 in Washington of the M-Club of the University of Maryland which began making the selections six years ago.

Turnbull was a lacrosse player, George a skeet shooter, Mrs. Wingard a swimmer and Berger an all-round athlete.

Turnbull played for Johns Hopkins and captained the team which played in the 1932 Olympics. He was killed while flying over Germany in 1944 at the age of 34.

George, former state senator and Democratic political leader in Queen Annes County, is a former All-American skeet champion.

Berger played football halfback, basketball guard and baseball infielder for Maryland. He played seven years of major league baseball with Cleveland, Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox.

Mrs. Wingard competed in the 1932 Olympics, establishing three freestyle world records and won four titles in the 1933 Nationals.

The Hall of Fame awards will be among several made at the M-Club banquet. Among them will be the Dinstinguished Public Service Award.

One-Man Track Team — Campers Vs. Ft. Hill
Trojans Cop Big One — Laurel In Trouble

By C. V. BURNS

PAUL HEYDRICK, who will be remembered as the "one-man track team" when he attended Potomac State College at Keyser in the 1920s, is among the athletes of yesteryear being mentioned for the West Virginia Sports Writers' Hall of Fame.

Charleston's Civic Center has been designated as the permanent home of the Hall of Fame.

Heydrick once was voted the greatest athlete in Charleston High School's history. He later starred at Potomac State, Kiski Prep and the University of Tennesee.

Paul used to participate in as many as eight events in one afternoon and often outscored entire teams. There never has been any track or field athlete his equal around this section.

The aluminum plaques for the Hall of Fame cost $340 each. A credit plate bearing the name of the donor will accompany each plaque.

Such greats from West Virginia as Cam Henderson, Ira Rodgers, "Gip" Battles, "Greasy" Neale, Cebe Ross, Joe Stydaher, "Hack" Wilson, Jesse Burkett, Big Sleepy Glenn and Lee Patton are others certain to be honored by plaques in the Hall of Fame.

JOHNSTOWN High School won a football game Friday night that attracted wide attention in the Keystone State.

The Trojans extended their two-year winning streak to 19 games by beating Altoona High, an ancient foe, by the score of 13-6 before 15,000 people at The Point Stadium in Johnstown.

Altoona had averaged about 40 points a game and enjoyed a 7-0 record before going down for the first time this season.

Johnstown won eleven games last year and is 8-0 for the current campaign.

ALLEGANY High School is leading the C.V.A.L. for the first time since that circuit was revived in 1956 but did you know the Campers won or shared the title six times during the 16 years they were in the old C.V.A.L. from 1928 to 1943.

Campobello teams won in 1938, 1939, 1941 and 1942, tied with Waynesboro and Handley in 1934 and deadlocked Waynesboro in 1936.

Charles "Rip" Engle, now coach of Penn State's undefeated team, tutored Waynesboro grid and basketball teams in the 1930s.

Bert Harbert was at the helm at Allegany in 1934. Herman Ball, now line coach for the Baltimore Colts, led the Campers the other five years they finished on top.

THREE WEEKS from tomorrow Allegany and Fort Hill will clash in their twenty-fourth Thanksgiving Day game for the city football championship.

The Sentinels hold a 12-9 edge in wins. Two games ended in ties.

Overall this will be the 27th meeting of these schools on the gridiron. Fort Hill has won 14, Allegany 9, and three games were even-Stephen affairs. They met twice in 1944, 1945 and 1946.

Allegany's last victory was 14 years ago. Since the 1945 loss, Fort Hill has won 11 out of 13 contests. The 1948 and 1953 games were ties.

FOR YEARS Baltimore turf writers have needled the state's half milers but the minor tracks now can have a chuckle after reading what Norman P. Clark wrote the other day in the Baltimore News-Post about Laurel, considered a major racing oval.

"Take yesterday's program at Laurel," Clark wrote. "The first four races were for maidens. Unless a man has an outright hatred for money or has no iota of knowledge of horse racing, he will not bet on these winless monsters. One such outrage on a racing card is enough. Four is way out of bounds."

Keyser, Moorefield Favored To Defeat Romney And LaSalle

Keyser High School will defeat Romney High School by the score of 25-0 on Saturday and remain in the running for the West Virginia Class AA title, according to Bill Barrett, United Press International sports writer of Charleston.

In another Class AA contest, undefeated Charles Town High's Panthers are picked to defeat Harpers Ferry by the score of 21-0.

Moorefield is a 14-0 choice over LaSalle and West Virginia School for the Deaf figures to beat Mt. Airy School for the Deaf of Philadelphia, 32-14.

Frederick's Cadets are a 14-0 choice over the Martinsburg Bulldogs while on the intercollegiate front Jesse Riggleman's Shepherd College Rams are a 21-7 choice over Bridgewater, Va., College.

"Chuck" Bradfield, left halfback, scored three of his team's four touchdowns and accounted for one of the three conversions as Keyser High School's junior varsity gridders defeated LaSalle High's Jayvees here yesterday by the score of 27-0.

The win enabled the Mineral Countians to sweep their series with the Little Explorers and make their season record 6-3-1. Romney will be met in the final game Monday at Romney.

Bradfield scored in the first quarter from the two and also ran the extra point. A fumble by LaSalle late in the opening stanza set up Keyser's second score which Bradfield made on a four-yard run early in the second period. Scott Biser made the conversion on an end run.

Biser climaxed a 60-yard drive in the third period by slamming over from the three and Jim Whitlach added the point.

Bradfield, a freshman from Burlington, ran 40 yards for Keyser's fourth td late in the third quarter.

FRIDAY GAMES
Beall at Bruce
Flintstone at Mt. Savage

Valley High School's seven-year 52-game string without a defeat ended yesterday when Beall High School handed the seven times champions of the W. M. I. Soccer League a 4-3 setback at Frostburg.

Since Valley came into the league in 1953 it had whipped Beall 13 consecutive times prior to yesterday's defeat in the Mountain City. The Black Knights long string had included 42 victories and 10 defeats since early in the 1953 campaign when they lost at Flintstone.

Bobby Brown Injured

Valley not only saw its long victory string shattered in its final game of the season but lost the services of Bobby Brown, halfback, who suffered a fractured collarbone when he fell on his shoulder following a collision with a Beall player in the final period. Brown, the only regular holdover from Valley's state Class B championship basketball team, was taken to Miners Hospital.

The teams battled to a 1-1 draw in the opening quarter when Allan Abbott, of Valley, and Jim Duncan, of Beall, booted field goals. Brown missed a penalty shot before the period ended.

Danny Young scored a field goal in the second quarter to give the Knights a 2-1 edge at intermission.

Jim Pollock scored on a pass from Ravenscroft to make it 3-1 as the third stanza got under way but Jim Duncan later blasted through a penalty goal to reduce the champions' lead to a single point.

Duncan's Goal Wins

Gilbert Carter's goal enabled Beall to knot the count at 3-all early in the final period and with 5½ minutes remaining Duncan's third goal of the game registered when the ball struck one of the uprights and bounded into the net.

Outstanding players were Milburn Spiker, Duncan, Fred Hall and Carter of Beall, and Roger Wilson, Larry McKenzie, Wayne Johnson and Pollock of Valley.

By scoring three goals in yesterday's game Duncan forged into first place in the individual scoring race with nine points to his credit. Dale Hott, of Mt. Savage, is runner-up with seven markers.

Coach Edward Finzel of Beall was tossed into the shower by his players after the game. He remarked that he didn't mind getting a soaking when his team won.

Aggies Upset Bruce

The second upset of the day occurred at Flintstone where Orville "Stony" Jackson's Flintstone Aggies broke a six-game losing streak by spilling Bruce High School's Bulldogs, 2 to 1.

Paul Barnes scored a field goal in the first period and Reed Clingerman gave Flintstone a 2-0 edge in the third quarter by booting a fielder after missing a penalty goal.

Russell Raines connected for Bruce's lone tally on a direct corner kick in the final period.

Final games of the season are scheduled for Friday.

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)— West Virginia University football players to a man picked Syracuse to whip Penn State in the battle of the unbeaten teams at University Park, Pa. next Saturday. WVU lost to seventh-ranked Penn State 28-10 last Saturday, and fourth-ranked Syracuse 44-0 the week before.

Buffalo 7th City To Join Grid League

Lands American Loop Franchise

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Wismer, member of the new American Football League's expansion committee, said Tuesday that Ralph C. Wilson Jr., of Detroit had definitely decided to locate a franchise in Buffalo, N.Y.

Buffalo is the seventh city in the new professional league which plans to start operations in 1960 with eight teams.

Officials of the league met here last Wednesday and awarded a franchise to Wilson. Wilson said at that time Buffalo was his probable choice for location of the franchise.

Wismer said an eighth city would be selected from Boston, Philadelphia, Kansas City, St. Louis, Cincinnati or New Orleans.

In addition to Buffalo, cities in the league are New York, Los Angeles, Dallas, Houston, Minneapolis-St. Paul, and Denver.

California May Break With USC

Injuries Put Bates Out For The Season

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Tribune hinted Tuesday the University of California might break off athletic relations with the University of Southern California over the injury of California halfback Steve Bates last Saturday.

California's coach Pete Elliott has charged that USC linesman Mike McKeever deliberately injured Bates while the back was lying out of bounds. Bates is hospitalized with facial injuries and is expected to be out for the season.

The next move in the Mike McKeever-Steve Bates incident is up to USC President Dr. Norman Topping," sportswriter Ed Schoenfeld wrote in the Tribune.

"Authoritative sources reported today that unless Dr. Topping takes immediate punitive action in the matter, University of California will act on its own, perhaps even breaking off athletic relations with the Trojans.

"This was evident after the sources reported that Dr. Topping and UC President Dr. Clark Kerr held a secret meeting yesterday on the Berkeley campus.

Dr. Topping and Dr. Kerr reportedly each had their own films of the California-USC game, which USC won 14-7.

"From all indications, the Berkeley administration is ready to back Coach Elliott to the hilt in his charges of foul play by the Trojans," Schoenfeld said. As one man close to the UC picture put it:

"They're angry. Unless USC does something in a hurry to clean up this mess, California will act. Break relations? Entirely possible."

Owls Club Wins, 2-1

The Owls Club won two out of three games from the Hi Dee Bar in an Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League match last night. Allen Miller paced the winners with 19 points and P. Drew was high scorer for Hi Dee Bar with 16 markers.

Soccer Referees' Plan Works OK

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslav soccer referees, tired of being pushed around by athletes protesting their decisions, got together and worked out a plan.

A referee named Nikolic was the first to put it in effect. Sunday, in a match at Sabac, a protesting player rushed up to Nikolic and slapped him twice.

Nickolic took the first slap, took the second — then calmly knocked the player unconscious with a right to the jaw.

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Cotton Bowl at Dallas may wind up with the year's best post-season football game on Jan. 1.

The bowl candidates are shaping up fast with the 1959 season slipping into November and what could be sweeter—if all goes well—than Texas vs. Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl?

On its last trip to Dallas, Syracuse with versatile Jimmy Brown wowed 'em in a 28-27 loser to Texas Christian on New Year's Day, 1957. This year's Syracuse team is even better than the Jimmy Brown special and undoubtedly would be welcomed back if the Orange proves its stuff against Penn State this Saturday.

If Syracuse and Penn State play a close one, both the winner and the loser are likely to be much in demand for bowl bids. Like Syracuse, Penn State took care of itself in its one Cotton Bowl shot tying Southern Methodist 13-13 in the 1948 game.

Here's a guess on the lineup:

Rose Bowl — Northwestern vs. Washington.

Cotton Bowl—Texas vs. Syracuse.

Sugar Bowl—Louisiana State vs. Clemson or Mississippi.

Orange Bowl—Kansas vs. Penn State.

Gator Bowl—Georgia Tech or Mississippi vs. Air Force.

The Sugar Bowl at New Orleans may have to wrestle with more problems than usual to insure an attractive game.

Last year it had Louisiana State's national champs against Clemson of the Atlantic Coast Conference in what turned out to be one of the day's less spectacular games. The same pair shapes up as logical choices again this year.

Actually, the Sugar Bowlers couldn't do any better than setting up an unprecedented re-play of last week's LSU-Mississippi thriller, won by LSU, 7-3. But would they?

And until further clarification, it's doubtful if New Orleans would invite a team with three Negro stars—namely, Syracuse.

A Rose Bowl natural would be the Big Ten champ—probably Northwestern — against those Southern California bone-breakers. But Southern Cal is in the NCAA's penalty box at the moment and is ineligible. Washington, a seven point loser to Southern California, is a good bet to represent the West.

Kansas, winner over Nebraska and Iowa State and a one-point loser to Oklahoma, looks good for the Orange Bowl for which Oklahoma is ineligible.

If the Gator Bowl lands Mississippi it'll take some dickering to provide a suitable opponent. Arkansas of the Southwest Conference might be a candidate for a bid against anyone but Mississippi—since Ole Miss rocked Arkansas 28-0 a couple of weeks back. But the Air Force might give the Rebs a tussle.

Mountaineers Face 3d Unbeaten Team

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia University's football team held a 30 - minute scrimmage Tuesday. Most of the time was spent running plays against Southern California defensive alignments.

The Mountaineers are 21 point underdogs. Southern California will be the third consecutive unbeaten team they have faced.

Flanagan Is Loser

Frostburg State Soccerites Beat Slippery Rock, 2-1

Bobcats End Season With 6-1-1 Record

Scarpelli, Sigler Score Field Goals In Opening Period

Frostburg State Teachers College wound up one of its most successful soccer seasons yesterday when it turned back the booters of Slippery Rock (Pa.) Teachers College by the score of 2-1 in a game played at Frostburg.

The victory was the sixth for Coach Kenneth Babcock's eleven against one defeat and one tie.

Art Scarpelli of Eckhart scored the first goal of the game after 50 seconds had elapsed in the opening period. A direct pass from Ronnie "Butch" Young enabled Scarpelli to register on a dribble in shot. With 1:15 gone in the initial quarter, Roy Sigler of Middletown scored with an assist from Young to give the Bobcats a 2-0 advantage.

After ten minutes of play in the third period, Kress kicked a penalty goal for Slippery Rock.

Goalie Jim Lupis of the Bobcats made 18 saves while Lumley and Meissner, Slippery Rock goal tenders, handled six and 18 shots, respectively. Frostburg had a total of 20 shots at the goal to the Pennsylvanians' 14. The winners received two corner kicks while the visitors had three.

It was a slambang battle all the way and a team victory for the Mountain City eleven which beat the Pitt Jayvees, Salisbury State Teachers, Mt. St. Mary's, Penn State Frosh and Virginia Military Institute, tied Grove City and lost to Lock Haven (Pa.) Teachers in the seven previous contests this season.

In eight games, the Bobcats scored 22 goals to eight for the opposition. "Butch" Young led the scorers with six goals, Ronnie Mann collected five, Howard Gilpin and Roy Sigler, three each, Jim Kelly, two, and Norm Nightingale, Bill Henaghan and Art Scarpelli, one each.

Reese Joins Dean For Broadcasting, Signs 2-Year Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—Pee Wee Reese, Dodger coach and onetime star, is switching from the playing field to the broadcasting booth.

The 40-year-old Dodger has accepted a 2-year contract to join Dizzy Dean as a commentator on CBS' Saturday and Sunday television games of the week, it was learned Tuesday.

He will succeed Buddy Blattner, another former major league infielder, as Dean's sidekick.

Official announcement is expected Thursday. Reese, according to a source close to the former All-Star shortstop, will receive $32,000 a year for two years with an option for two more years. He reportedly received $18,000 as a coach.

According to this source, one of the main reasons Reese was taking the new job was that he would be able to spend more time at his Louisville home. The broadcasting job would require about three days a week on the road.

Frostburg State Soccerites Beat Slippery Rock, 2-1

Bobcats End Season With 6-1-1 Record

Scarpelli, Sigler Score Field Goals In Opening Period

Frostburg State Teachers College wound up one of its most successful soccer seasons yesterday when it turned back the booters of Slippery Rock (Pa.) Teachers College by the score of 2-1 in a game played at Frostburg.

The victory was the sixth for Coach Kenneth Babcock's eleven against one defeat and one tie.

Art Scarpelli of Eckhart scored the first goal of the game after 50 seconds had elapsed in the opening period. A direct pass from Ronnie "Butch" Young enabled Scarpelli to register on a dribble in shot. With 1:15 gone in the initial quarter, Roy Sigler of Middletown scored with an assist from Young to give the Bobcats a 2-0 advantage.

After ten minutes of play in the third period, Kress kicked a penalty goal for Slippery Rock.

Goalie Jim Lupis of the Bobcats made 18 saves while Lumley and Meissner, Slippery Rock goal tenders, handled six and 18 shots, respectively. Frostburg had a total of 20 shots at the goal to the Pennsylvanians' 14. The winners received two corner kicks while the visitors had three.

It was a slambang battle all the way and a team victory for the Mountain City eleven which beat the Pitt Jayvees, Salisbury State Teachers, Mt. St. Mary's, Penn State Frosh and Virginia Military Institute, tied Grove City and lost to Lock Haven (Pa.) Teachers in the seven previous contests this season.

In eight games, the Bobcats scored 22 goals to eight for the opposition. "Butch" Young led the scorers with six goals, Ronnie Mann collected five, Howard Gilpin and Roy Sigler, three each, Jim Kelly, two, and Norm Nightingale, Bill Henaghan and Art Scarpelli, one each.

Reese Joins Dean For Broadcasting, Signs 2-Year Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—Pee Wee Reese, Dodger coach and onetime star, is switching from the playing field to the broadcasting booth.

The 40-year-old Dodger has accepted a 2-year contract to join Dizzy Dean as a commentator on CBS' Saturday and Sunday television games of the week, it was learned Tuesday.

He will succeed Buddy Blattner, another former major league infielder, as Dean's sidekick.

Official announcement is expected Thursday. Reese, according to a source close to the former All-Star shortstop, will receive $32,000 a year for two years with an option for two more years. He reportedly received $18,000 as a coach.

According to this source, one of the main reasons Reese was taking the new job was that he would be able to spend more time at his Louisville home. The broadcasting job would require about three days a week on the road.

Grant Has Eight Winners In Two Days At Laurel

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 3 (AP)—Jockey Howard Grant brought home his eighth win in a two-day period by guiding Yes You Will in the feature at Laurel today. He now has 18 wins in the 6-day-old meeting.

Yes You Will, owned by Mrs. Edith L. Price of Timonium, Md., went off $3.20 favorite with the crowd of 9,683 fans and coasted home a two length winner over Chasmar Flash.

His six-furlong time of 1:12 was the fastest of the meeting.

Grant, 20, captured the fifth race with Robert Armstrong's True Bob.

Yesterday he won a total of five races, his last four being the last four races in which he rode. He won the first three today in which he accepted mounts.

In addition to Yes You Will and True Bob ($6.40), he brought home Finn McCool in the second ($3.40) and Kalomo ($3.20) in the fourth.

To Apply Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced the 10 per cent manufacturers excise tax will be applied to all self-contained air conditioning units beginning Dec. 1. At present the rule applies only to air conditioners of one horsepower or less.

Harbors in northern Norway are free of ice although they are well above the Arctic Circle. This is because they are warmed by the Gulf Stream.

Urges Permanency

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—India, in a resolution made public Sunday, called on the world's temporary atomic and hydrogen test suspensions permanent as soon as possible. The resolution also called on "all other states" to refrain from beginning nuclear test programs.

Most of the typhoons that thrash the coasts of Korea and Japan in late summer and early fall originate in the China sea east of Formosa.

MD Canisters Are Distributed

City and volunteer firemen have begun distributing coin canisters for the annual Muscular Dystrophy Fund Campaign, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman of the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter drive, said yesterday.

Approximately half of the 800 canisters have been distributed to public places, he said.

Meanwhile, a recruiting campaign to get 500 house-to-house canvassers is under way. This phase of the campaign is in charge of Arthur Nave, 514 Conrad Avenue.

Date for the house-to-house canvass will be announced later but it probably will be the last week of November.

The local Fire Department and volunteer firemen of Allegany and Garrett counties have conducted the drive the past six years. Alvin Rankin of Frostburg, is in charge of volunteer firemen including Garrett County.

No goal has been set but it is hoped to realize $4,000 to $5,000. Last year the drive brought in about $3,000, Parker said.

Parker said that out of every dollar donated, 25 cents remains in Cumberland for the care of muscular dystrophy patients in the two counties. However, he said the MD organization does not recognize state boundaries and often assists victims in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. If the county chapter is short of funds, it can obtain assistance for treatment and diagnosis from national headquarters in New York, Parker said.

Board Gets Invitation

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce has invited the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to attend the "Pancake Day" program at the State Armory next Monday in their official capacity.

Many of the golden plovers which breed in Alaska fly 2,300 miles over the ocean to winter in Hawaii.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

For Your Figure's Future . . .

Slump in a sitting position — and any claim you have to a neat middle section is gone in a second! Keep on slumping — and the time will come when that conspicuous thickness won't disappear when you stand up.

Muscle control can't be allowed a letdown, especially the kind that lasts so long during a sit-down day's work. It is decidedly a letdown when the back becomes a C-curve — muscles give up any responsibility for holding in the abdomen, the waist and the over-the-diaphragm area. The tautest youthful muscles fail to snap back after they've been off-duty too often.

No matter how determinedly erect you sit at nine o'clock, don't count o.. holding the pose even though it is certainly the one that's least tiring. Oncoming fatigue will try to change it. Catch yourself before fatigue sets in — make a practice of rising and moving around often enough to avoid the critical moment when you may slump unconsciously. And check the chair that could hasten over-tiredness. You should be able to rest your feet on the floor comfortably, and feel back-fitting support.

A good sitting posture during business hours tends to carry over to leisure time, but make sure that it does. Hunching at a lunch counter or sprawling at home makes it all the harder to sustain erectness on duty. Even the short breaks during a work day can work toward figure-keeping, if they are made as restful and strain-relieving as they can be.

Try to take five minutes every morning and afternoon to refresh yourself with all or part of this routine: Stretch your arms over your head; press your spine flat against a wall; massage the back of your neck between your thumb and forefinger with an upward motion. There's no comparison between the way you feel after this and after so-called relaxing in another chair in just the slump you're trying to avoid.

The Sudan comprises nearly one million square miles, an area one-third that of the United States. Yet its population is only about the same as that of the state of Ohio.

Businessmen go on junkets at the stockholders' expense. Nixon goes on junkets at the taxpayers' expense, Newspapermen go on junkets at tthe broadcasters' expense. "New York Times" reporters and editors have gone on junkets. I've been on junkets that have contributed vastly to my understanding and to the wisdom of my column and corrupted me not at all. If there is impropriety in junkets—and the question is arguable—it certainly is not on a level with that of the people who perpetrated a vast and lucrative fraud on the public.

But Gould, in raising the issue at this time, has diverted attention from a very large issue—the malefactors who amassed great wealth by fraud—to a very little one. Also — let's not mince words—he's fouled his own nest. He has damaged public confidence in his own profession over an issue that seems hardly worth it. His timing could hardly be worse. If newspapers start calling each other names in the middle of a big story, no one is going to get the story covered properly.

Talk! Talk! Talk!

"It never stops—talk, talk, talk," says one of the characters early in George Bernard Shaw's "Misalliance" which was presented on "Playhouse 90" the other night, and talk, talk, talk, it most certainly was for ninety long charming, bubbly, but frequently exasperating minutes.

"Thank goodness, he's gone!" says another character. "Talk! Talk! Talk! Says another: We're going to talk some more." So they do. I was particularly enchanted by a passage at arms, when a character in desperation turns to Robert Morley and asks: "Tell me what to do." And Mr. Morley counsels: "Read something." That is the Shavian solution to most problems. In normal emergencies, talk. In moments of deeper stress, read something.

The play ends with the passage:

"Is there anything else?"

"I really don't think there's anything more to be said."

"Thank goodness."

That last sentiment echoed the audience's. I'm not sure "Misalliance" is ready for television yet. Its bright Victorian naughtiness: its delicate nuances of behavior — an avenger who intended murder, after the gun is wrestled from him, exclaims petulantly: "Oh, well, I didn't do that just properly" — and especially Siobhan McKenna's rejection of an offer of marriage which may easily be the longest "No" in literary history, are not suited to the more impatient demands of the TV cameras. Still, I'm proud and happy that "Playhouse 90" attempted it and "Misalliance" can now safely be returned to the stage where audiences are also known to get a little restive.

Robert Morley gave a full flavored but one-dimensional performance in the principal role. Claire Bloom was decorative, pert, and impish; Siobhan McKenna was muscular; Kenneth Haigh, Rod Taylor, John Williams, and Isobel Elson were all attractive and frightfully English. "Playhouse 90" still is looking for its first smash hit of the year. However, one of its prior smashes, "The Miracle Worker," has turned up on Broadway where it is also a smash! (For heaven's sake, bring a hankie. It's deeply moving.)

The play is now in the province of the drama critics (who loved it) but I'd like to mention one small point that struck me. In dealing with the problem of getting through to a deaf, and blind child, Miss Annie Sullivan (Anne Bancroft) uses completely pre-Freudian methods (the child is going to be forced to behave if she has to tear the house down) and Mr. Gibson writes about it in totally non-Freudian terms.

Obedience and good manners are held up as absolute virtues and the use of simple old-fashioned force to impose them are practiced without questioning their effects on the little monster's psyche. I found this all terribly refreshing because Freud has laid so paralyzing a grip on our writers that they cannot write even about ancient times except in terms of Freudian rationalizations. I devoutly hope "The Miracle Worker" is a harbinger of a fresh approach to human motivation and human responses because I'm deadly sick of the Freudian ethic which, I think, has severely limited our writers.

Jack Gould of the "New York Times" has broadened the quiz scandal to include his own profession. How about the reporters and columnists who have gone on junkets and accepted gifts? Are they in a fit moral position to report or comment on the quizlings, asks Gould (though in nothing like that brevity).

To Apply Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced the 10 per cent manufacturers excise tax will be applied to all self-contained air conditioning units beginning Dec. 1. At present the rule applies only to air conditioners of one horsepower or less.

Harbors in northern Norway are free of ice although they are well above the Arctic Circle. This is because they are warmed by the Gulf Stream.

Urges Permanency

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—India, in a resolution made public Sunday, called on the world's temporary atomic and hydrogen test suspensions permanent as soon as possible. The resolution also called on "all other states" to refrain from beginning nuclear test programs.

Most of the typhoons that thrash the coasts of Korea and Japan in late summer and early fall originate in the China sea east of Formosa.

MD Canisters Are Distributed

City and volunteer firemen have begun distributing coin canisters for the annual Muscular Dystrophy Fund Campaign, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman of the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter drive, said yesterday.

Approximately half of the 800 canisters have been distributed to public places, he said.

Meanwhile, a recruiting campaign to get 500 house-to-house canvassers is under way. This phase of the campaign is in charge of Arthur Nave, 514 Conrad Avenue.

Date for the house-to-house canvass will be announced later but it probably will be the last week of November.

The local Fire Department and volunteer firemen of Allegany and Garrett counties have conducted the drive the past six years. Alvin Rankin of Frostburg, is in charge of volunteer firemen including Garrett County.

No goal has been set but it is hoped to realize $4,000 to $5,000. Last year the drive brought in about $3,000, Parker said.

Parker said that out of every dollar donated, 25 cents remains in Cumberland for the care of muscular dystrophy patients in the two counties. However, he said the MD organization does not recognize state boundaries and often assists victims in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. If the county chapter is short of funds, it can obtain assistance for treatment and diagnosis from national headquarters in New York, Parker said.

Board Gets Invitation

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce has invited the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to attend the "Pancake Day" program at the State Armory next Monday in their official capacity.

Jack Gould of the "New York Times" has broadened the quiz scandal to include his own profession. How about the reporters and columnists who have gone on junkets and accepted gifts? Are they in a fit moral position to report or comment on the quizlings, asks Gould (though in nothing like that brevity).

Well, let's consider the matter. junkets at the broadcasters' expense. Businessmen go on junkets at the stockholders' expense. Nixon goes on junkets at the taxpayers' expense, Newspapermen go on junkets at tthe broadcasters' expense. "New York Times" reporters and editors have gone on junkets. I've been on junkets that have contributed vastly to my understanding and to the wisdom of my column and corrupted me not at all. If there is impropriety in junkets—and the question is arguable—it certainly is not on a level with that of the people who perpetrated a vast and lucrative fraud on the public.

But Gould, in raising the issue at this time, has diverted attention from a very large issue—the malefactors who amassed great wealth by fraud—to a very little one. Also — let's not mince words—he's fouled his own nest. He has damaged public confidence in his own profession over an issue that seems hardly worth it. His timing could hardly be worse. If newspapers start calling each other names in the middle of a big story, no one is going to get the story covered properly.

THEY made this year's big picture!

"HEROES? After this... you'll get your medals in hell! If I had a gun, I'd put a hole where that liquor would squirt right out of your guts!"

NOTHING TO LOSE! Sergeant Chawk doesn't want a medal or his picture in the paper when he gets it. He's already got too many pictures around—with the headline "WANTED".

TRAPPED BY A BAND OF BESTIAL MEN... and marked for a traitor's doom, she would take help from the devil himself.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Joseph Whetzel, who passed away 4 years ago today.
Four years ago you passed away,
But we have missed you every day.
The time came when we had to part,
But your smile still lingers in our hearts.
They say that time will soon heal all,
But it seems we still hear your call.
Your kind sweet smile and wonderful ways
Are memories we'll cherish the rest of our days.
Sadly missed by
Family and Grandchildren

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Joseph Whetzel, who passed away 4 years ago today.
Four years ago you passed away,
But we have missed you every day.
The time came when we had to part,
But your smile still lingers in our hearts.
They say that time will soon heal all,
But it seems we still hear your call.
Your kind sweet smile and wonderful ways
Are memories we'll cherish the rest of our days.
Sadly missed by
Family and Grandchildren

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Richard Egan, currently the center of a tug-o'-war between 20th and Warners over his contract, returns to 20th for "From the Terrace." The good-looking Richard takes on the most villainous role of his career, that of the psychiatrist who breaks up the marriage of Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward, stars of the John O'Hara novel.

Boss Buddy Adler, in announcing the signing of Egan, says the picture starts, with Mark Robson directing, on Nov. 23 in New York. Reason for the New York locale is that Paul Newman will continue in his stage hit, "Sweet Bird of Youth," all during the making of "Terrace." What a lot of hard work that will be!

However, Newman must be in Israel for "Exodus" in January and this is the only way "Terrace" can be made before he leaves.

Word comes that "The Wreck of the Mary Deare" is the dramatic "sleeper" of the year, a socko sea story, starring Gary Cooper and Charlton Heston which had the specially invited preview audience in New York on the edge of its chairs. Perhaps the big surprise is Virginia McKenna—the only woman in the cast. The blonde Virginia has been England's No. one favorite actress two years running. But she's far from famous in this country.

Producer Jules Blaustein intends to remedy this. On the wings of the raves over Virginia he called her Transatlantic to offer her "The Spinster," Sylvia Ashton Warner's well-priaised novel of last year. It's typical that Miss McKenna has just promised "to read" Ben Maddow's script. In England she is happily married to actor Bill Travers, devoted to their son, and she works when she pleases.

While Dinah Shore is busy with TV and working very hard to keep her place at the head of the class, George Montgomery is keeping up with his movies. George's latest plan in this direction will be to go to the Philippines after the first of the year to produce and star in "Hell and High Water," a patriotic naval yarn with plenty of action.

This will be George's second Philippine production. He made "Huk" there a couple of years ago and netted a minor mint as a happy result.

Robert Mitchum may have had his troubles in Ireland—but he's a very popular character in Australia where he's making "The Sundowners" with Deborah Kerr. and one Australian, Paul De Coque, who thinks Bob's just about the finest man he ever met.

Seems that when the Warner company arrived in Cooma, De Coque was assigned to Bob as his personal chauffeur. After about 10 days, the driver received word that his mother was desperately ill and had to be rushed to the hospital for immediate surgery. Mitchum not only defrayed all expenses of the hospital and surgeon, but kept his chauffeur on salary for the week he spent at his mother's bedside. Bob mentioned not a word of his good Samaritan act—but the chauffeur did!

Friends of mine in London say that nothing like the King Brothers, inclusive of the V-2 rocket, have ever infiltrated London. The Kings movie "Gorgo" deals with a giant sea monster who is supposed to ravish London trying to rescue its baby which has been stolen by men.

The enterprising Kings took the baby on parade through Picadilly to film authentic background scenes. Few parades have ever had as many onlookers. Leave it to these brothers to get permission to tie up London traffic.

Where will these titles stop! Now we have "Melody of Seb" which Henry and Phoebe Ephron have completed for Paramount, with Henry as producer. He assures us that while the title will be changed, it is actually the name of Max Catto's novel from which the comedy was taken.

This is about a wealthy American in Paris who inherits three beautiful girls who run a night-club. A copy of the script has gone to Ava Gardner in Rome and if she says yes then Henry will make a try to get Rock Hudson.

Police Pay Adjusted At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — City police came in for a change in wages at Monday's Mayor and Council meeting after Chief Donald Griffith, pointed out that officers worked on paid holidays for time and half-time pay while other municipal workers did not work and received regular time. In effect, he said, this was working half-time.

After discussion by council, a motion was passed to pay double time on the six regular paid holidays to the men who worked. If a holiday falls on a policeman's day off, he will not receive eight hours pay as in the case of other city workers.

Jury Acquits Clyde McLucas

KEYSER—Clyde Richard McLucas, operator of a garage-paint store in Keyser, yesterday was found not guilty of a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol at a jury trial in Mineral County Circuit Court here.

McLucas was arrested June 3 by Trooper R. B. Noeschel of the West Virginia State Police and was indicted by the July term of the grand jury.

The state concluded its case yesterday morning with the testimony of Mayor Richard Romig of Keyser and O. A. Harmon, member of the Mineral County Board of Commissioners.

Prosecuting attorney was state's attorney Donald C. Hott and defending McLucas were H. G. Shores and Howard P. Shores.

A jury consisting of six women and six men heard the case yesterday.

The case of Benjamin Dante, charged with an overload of a truck, is scheduled to be tried this morning.

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Richard Egan, currently the center of a tug-o'-war between 20th and Warners over his contract, returns to 20th for "From the Terrace." The good-looking Richard takes on the most villainous role of his career, that of the psychiatrist who breaks up the marriage of Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward, stars of the John O'Hara novel.

Boss Buddy Adler, in announcing the signing of Egan, says the picture starts, with Mark Robson directing, on Nov. 23 in New York. Reason for the New York locale is that Paul Newman will continue in his stage hit, "Sweet Bird of Youth," all during the making of "Terrace." What a lot of hard work that will be!

However, Newman must be in Israel for "Exodus" in January and this is the only way "Terrace" can be made before he leaves.

Word comes that "The Wreck of the Mary Deare" is the dramatic "sleeper" of the year, a socko sea story, starring Gary Cooper and Charlton Heston which had the specially invited preview audience in New York on the edge of its chairs. Perhaps the big surprise is Virginia McKenna—the only woman in the cast. The blonde Virginia has been England's No. one favorite actress two years running. But she's far from famous in this country.

Producer Jules Blaustein intends to remedy this. On the wings of the raves over Virginia he called her Transatlantic to offer her "The Spinster," Sylvia Ashton Warner's well-priased novel of last year. It's typical that Miss McKenna has just promised "to read" Ben Maddow's script. In England she is happily married to actor Bill Travers, devoted to their son, and she works when she pleases.

While Dinah Shore is busy with TV and working very hard to keep her place at the head of the class, George Montgomery is keeping up with his movies. George's latest plan in this direction will be to go to the Philippines after the first of the year to produce and star in "Hell and High Water," a patriotic naval yarn with plenty of action.

This will be George's second Philippine production. He made "Huk" there a couple of years ago and netted a minor mint as a happy result.

Robert Mitchum may have had his troubles in Ireland—but he's a very popular character in Australia where he's making "The Sundowners" with Deborah Kerr and one Australian, Paul De Coque, who thinks Bob's just about the finest man he ever met.

Seems that when the Warner company arrived in Cooma, De Coque was assigned to Bob as his personal chauffeur. After about 10 days, the driver received word that his mother was desperately ill and had to be rushed to the hospital for immediate surgery. Mitchum not only defrayed all expenses of the hospital and surgeon, but kept his chauffeur on salary for the week he spent at his mother's bedside. Bob mentioned not a word of his good Samaritan act—but the chauffeur did!

Friends of mine in London say that nothing like the King Brothers, inclusive of the V-2 rocket, have ever infiltrated London. The Kings movie "Gorgo" deals with a giant sea monster who is supposed to ravish London trying to rescue its baby which has been stolen by men.

The enterprising Kings took the baby on parade through Picadilly to film authentic background scenes. Few parades have ever had as many onlookers. Leave it to these Brothers to get permission to tie up London traffic.

Where will these titles stop! Now we have "Melody of Seb" which Henry and Phoebe Ephron have completed for Paramount, with Henry as producer. He assures us that while the title will be changed, it is actually the name of Max Catto's novel from which the comedy was taken.

This is about a wealthy American in Paris who inherits three beautiful girls who run a night-club. A copy of the script has gone to Ava Gardner in Rome and if she says yes then Henry will make a try to get Rock Hudson.

Jury Acquits Clyde McLucas

KEYSER—Clyde Richard McLucas, operator of a garage-paint store in Keyser, yesterday was found not guilty of a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol at a jury trial in Mineral County Circuit Court here.

McLucas was arrested June 3 by Trooper R. B. Noeschel of the West Virginia State Police and was indicted by the July term of the grand jury.

The state concluded its case yesterday morning with the testimony of Mayor Richard Romig of Keyser and O. A. Harmon, member of the Mineral County Board of Commissioners.

Prosecuting attorney was state's attorney Donald C. Hott and defending McLucas were H. G. Shores and Howard P. Shores.

A jury consisting of six women and six men heard the case yesterday.

The case of Benjamin Dante, charged with an overload of a truck, is scheduled to be tried this morning.

Provides Credit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Export-Import Bank in cooperation with seven commercial banks, Boeing Airplane Co. and United Aircraft Corp. announced they will provide $20,000,000 in credit to Sabena, the Belgian International Airline, for the purchase of five Boeing 707 jetliners.

Police Pay Adjusted At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — City police came in for a change in wages at Monday's Mayor and Council meeting after Chief Donald Griffith, pointed out that officers worked on paid holidays for time and half-time pay while other municipal workers did not work and received regular time. In effect, he said, this was working half-time.

After discussion by council, a motion was passed to pay double time on the six regular paid holidays to the men who worked. If a holiday falls on a policeman's day off, he will not receive eight hours pay as in the case of other city workers.

NEW YORK (AP)—"Repeaters" are worth the strong consideration of investors.

That's the word Tuesday from Spear and Staff, Inc., market analysts.

"Repeat products are expendable items," Spear explains. "They can be used only once or twice and then are discarded. The repeat item is sometimes necessary for the use of basic equipment, or it may satisfy individual personal needs. In the latter instance, the steady rise in population stimulates a constant gain in demand."

Spear says companies developing and producing products of this nature usually have a long record of outstanding growth.

"Usually," Spear adds, "they are able to continue this position because of one or two factors:

"1. They are thoroughly protected by basic patent rights.

"2. They have a top industry position with established trademarks in a field where new competition is prohibitively costly.

"Repeat business backed by either or both of the foregoing should result in consistently high and well-maintained profit margins."

"The attitude of professional investors is reflected in the portfolio operations of mutual funds in the September quarter," comments Standard & Poor's Corp. "Although the net flow of investable funds rose by 23 per cent over the June quarter total, net security purchases (excluding U.S. Governments) declined to 213 million dollars from 299 millions in the second quarter and 361 millions in the first three months of 1959.

"There was evidence of considerable switching, including some movement into bonds. The other side of the coin, of course, is that buying power is being built up for employment when the time appears ripe."

The Fitch Survey says: "While the near-term business outlook remains clouded because of the growing tightness of steel supplies and attendant impact upon industrial operations, a backlog for a sustained high level of business activity is being created which should result in an extension of the eventual recovery to at least the latter part of next year."

Father Of W.Va. Governor Suffers Slight Stroke

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI) — Silas Underwood, 84, Josephs Mill, father of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, suffered a slight stroke early Monday but was reported in fair condition at Sistersville General Hospital.

Dr. Ralph Boone, attending physician, said the elderly Underwood suffered no major effects from the stroke and was in good spirits.

Underwood resides with his wife on a small farm, the Underwood home place, near here.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood was in Miami Beach, Fla. at the time addressing a convention of the National Assn. of Civil Defense Directors. His office in Charleston said he began a return trip home immediately upon being notified.

W.Va. Supreme Court Sustains Prison Term

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A 1-to-10 year prison sentence imposed on a Fayette County coal miner convicted of car theft was sustained, in effect, Monday by the State Supreme Court.

The high court refused unanimously to set aside the conviction and prison sentence of Kenneth E. Likens, accused of stealing a car from an auto agency at Oak Hill.

Likens maintained in his appeal that the Fayette County Circuit Court did not permit him to change his plea to innocent and that he was only testing the car under alleged agreement with the dealer.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Corn and soybeans advanced sharply Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Other grains were mixed.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to ⅝; corn up 1⅜ to 1¾; oats off ⅜ to up ¼; rye up ¼ to ¾; soybeans up 1⅛ to 1½.

Wheat was quiet and mostly easy. Commercial houses were small buyers, while most selling was local and scattered. No export business in what was reported.

Corn prices advanced about 2 cents a bushel shortly after the opening. Local traders, commission and commercial houses were active buyers. Offerings grew scarce and stop orders were uncovered. Commercial houses sold. Longs sold freely on the bulge.

Export subsidies were granted on 3,430,000 bushels of corn and 156,000 bushels of rye.

Oats again marched to new highs for the season. Commission houses were on both sides. Cash interests sold March. The market closed steady in the nearby and easier in the deferred contracts.

Rye prices firmed early on some commission buying.

Soybeans were very active. Prices advanced to the highest levels since last July. Longs and cash interests were heavy sellers, but commission houses took the offerings.

Opening lead: King of ♦.

Many an apparently ironclad contract is susceptible to a killing defense, if only the defenders will maintain hope and look for a way to defeat it.

In today's hand South became declarer at a contract of four hearts. The king of diamonds was opened and East followed with the ten. The ace was continued and East dropped the queen. West knew that declarer could overruff his partner; so he shifted to the singleton club. This was taken in dummy and a low heart led to the queen. West won with the ace and continued with the nine of diamonds. East made a useless discard, declarer ruffed, extracted trumps and claimed the remainder.

East's discard on the nine of diamonds was rather thoughtless. The ten of hearts was of no earthly use to him, and he should have ruffed his partner's good trick with the hope that it might force a high trump and thus develop something for his partner. This play is known colloquially as the "upper cut." It will be seen that the ten of hearts would have forced the jack from declarer's hand and would have promoted West's nine to winning rank.

While East missed a chance to excel, West, in our view, was the real culprit. At trick three he should have realized that the only hope to defeat the contract was to take two trump tricks, for the bidding and play plainly indicates that South holds the missing honor strength. After winning with the ace of diamonds, West should continue with a small diamond. This play will force East to trump, and it will require no great amount of vision to ruff with the ten rather than the deuce.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

Many an apparently ironclad contract is susceptible to a killing defense, if only the defenders will maintain hope and look for a way to defeat it.

In today's hand South became declarer at a contract of four hearts. The king of diamonds was opened and East followed with the ten. The ace was continued and East dropped the queen. West knew that declarer could overruff his partner; so he shifted to the singleton club. This was taken in dummy and a low heart led to the queen. West won with the ace and continued with the nine of diamonds. East made a useless discard, declarer ruffed, extracted trumps and claimed the remainder.

East's discard on the nine of diamonds was rather thoughtless. The ten of hearts was of no earthly use to him, and he should have ruffed his partner's good trick with the hope that it might force a high trump and thus develop something for his partner. This play is known colloquially as the "upper cut." It will be seen that the ten of hearts would have forced the jack from declarer's hand and would have promoted West's nine to winning rank.

While East missed a chance to excel, West, in our view, was the real culprit. At trick three he should have realized that the only hope to defeat the contract was to take two trump tricks, for the bidding and play plainly indicates that South holds the missing honor strength. After winning with the ace of diamonds, West should continue with a small diamond. This play will force East to trump, and it will require no great amount of vision to ruff with the ten rather than the deuce.

Kelly Workers Pay Tribute To E. S. Burke

More Than 300 Attend Testimonial

By C. W. BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

More than 300 members of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company joined last night in honoring Edmund S. Burke, chairman of the board, who is retiring after 26 years of service with the firm.

The years at Kelly, Mr. Burke said, have been challenging, exciting, fruitful and rewarding years.

And the man who raised the once defunct Kelly-Springfield Tire Company to the point where it is one of the leaders in the tire industry made it clear they have been good years, quoting:

"Work is not man's punishment, it is his reward, and his strength, and his pleasure."

He summarized his years at Kelly by the words of Elbert Hubbard:

"Anyhow—I did my damndest."

And all of the guests who attended the dinner honoring Mr. Burke agreed it was a superlative job.

E. J. Thomas, chairman of the Board of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, gave Mr. Burke his heartiest congratulations saying he had done "one of the finest jobs in the tire business."

Stands For Principle

Mr. Burke, he stressed, stands for principle, not expediency, and assured the Kelly official that he leaves with the regrets of the Goodyear family.

He told Mr. Burke the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company is a "living memorial" to his accomplishments of over a quarter of a century.

Mr. Burke cited the principal accomplishments at Kelly as:

Stabilization in work and earnings.

Longer and paid vacations for all.

Every employe covered by life insurance.

The pension plan.

Hospital and benefit plan.

The same theme was stressed by Mr. Thomas, who termed "wonderful" the hospital and insurance plans which have been provided in the industry.

Those in the tire industry, Mr. Thomas said, "must keep a flexible mind" and must be willing to change as "sometimes the worst mistake is doing nothing at all."

He said Goodyear, under whose banner Kelly was enrolled by the efforts of Mr. Burke, has increased the lead over its competition.

Growing Industry

The industry, he added, is still a growing one, and predicted that Kelly will grow with it.

He said the most vital decision Mr. Burke made was that Kelly was to operate as an independent firm with its own mission.

Served Favorite Food

F. T. Bell, personnel manager, gave the invocation at the dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The menu consisted of Mr. Burke's favorite foods and his best-loved dessert, lemon merangue pie, was baked by Mrs. J. C. Warden, his favorite pie baker.

M. T. Powers, vice president in charge of sales, served as toastmaster and introduced O. R. Schierenback and B. O. Shaffer, the oldest staff and worker employes of the Kelly organization.

George B. Newman, Kelly president, said Mr. Burke, in his years at Kelly, increased sales more than 15 times and said the objective of those who will carry on his work is not only to keep Kelly important within the industry but to strengthen its position to where Kelly will be the strongest, other than major companies.

Is Brightest Year

He said 1959 will be the brightest year in Kelly's history and that the future of Kelly lies in producing top quality goods at the lowest possible prices and developing Kelly people who are more capable than its competition.

To Mr. Burke he said, "Relax, enjoy yourself."

And the gifts presented by

The plaintiff alleges the bus was stopped on the paved surface of the highway and a motorist following crashed into the rear of the bus.

Linn said he suffered injuries to his back and nervous shock. He states he incurred medical and hospital bills as a result of the bus-car accident.

The bus company dismissed a claim against Richard C. Morris, city, who was the driver of the car which crashed into the bus. The case was dismissed on Monday this week.

Demos Open First Full Time State Office

BALTIMORE (AP) — The year-'round headquarters of Maryland's Democratic State Central Committee officially opened for business Tuesday.

On hand for the final unpacking of literature, stationery and other paraphernalia were Committee Chairman Thomas B. Finan and Treasurer David Hume.

They helped apply the finishing touches to the equipping of the two-room office suite on the third floor of the Hotel Emerson, where a two-member permanent staff has been on duty for more than three weeks.

The full-time employes at the headquarters are Executive Secretary Carl R. Tuvin, 23-year-old graduate of Goddard College, Vt., and Miss Jane Carr, the headquarters secretary. Miss Carr, a pert, blue-eyed brownette, is a former Annapolis secretary of Odell M. Smith, aide to Gov. Tawes.

With the opening of its spanking-new layout within non-electioneering distance of Republican headquarters in a nearby office building, the Maryland Democratic Pary lost its distinction as one of only three in the nation without a permanent campaign base. The others are Wyoming and Montana.

Hume said the Maryland offices, modest by comparison with the 20-member staff in Pennsylvania and 35-member team manning the New York headquarters, had been set up on an annual budget of $25,000.

"And we're keeping track of everything, right down to the last drinking cup," he added.

Finan announced the appointment of Harry T. Gross of Baltimore, longtime party legal adviser, as committee counsel.

Other committee officials include Mrs. E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery County, co-chairman; Mrs. Ruby Hahn of Frederick, vice chairman in charge of women's groups; Mrs. Ann Brown, Montgomery County, vice chairman in charge of registration; James P. Mause, Frederick, vice chairman representing Young Democrats, and Mrs. Ann Ningard, Baltimore, in charge of political education.

Finan said E. Stuart Bushong, Washington County, had been elected Western Maryland regional chairman; Mrs. Helen Baumgartner, Oakland, women's regional chairman, and Mrs. Areal W. Moore of Baltimore, secretary to the committee.

Sacred Heart Gives Thanks To Red Cross

Sacred Heart Hospital last night expressed its gratitude to Red Cross officials and police organizations in two states for their quick efforts in securing blood during two emergencies at the local institution last week.

The hospital said certain types of blood were needed last week on two separate occasions and none was available at any of the other hospitals in the area.

Officials at the local Red Cross chapter were notified of the emergencies and they in turn called the regional blood bank in Johnstown, Pa., requesting the necessary blood.

A series of relays by four different police groups brought the blood to the local hospital within a two-hour period that the request was made by Sacred Heart Hospital.

The blood was taken from the blood bank by the Johnstown City Police and they delivered it to a police car of the Windber (Pa.) City Police. They relayed the blood to a Pennsylvania State Police cruiser who then turned the blood over to a Maryland State Police car, which delivered it to the hospital.

Hospital officials said the quick responses to the two requests for blood was a "wonderful service" to the individuals who needed the blood, since both requests were made in the middle of the night.

Hospital officials also expressed their thanks to two local men who came to the institution the two nights to donate their blood.

Sick Leave Pay Point Is Clarified

County Attorney Gives Opinion

Sick leave pay for Allegany County employes has been clarified by Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Board of Commissioners, in a letter to Harry T. Skelly, supervisor of county roads, who sought the information.

Mr. Skelly requested an opinion as to whether or not a county employe who sustains an injury during the course of his employment may obtain sick leave pay in addition to any compensation that may be paid him under Workmen's Compensation laws.

In his reply to Mr. Skelly, the attorney said that payment of sick leave is governed by Section V, B, of the rules and regulations of the Civil Service Commission of Allegany County.

The sub-section referred to is as follows:

"Sick leave is paid leave that may be granted to each eligible employe, who by reason of sickness or injury, outside of the scope of his employment, becomes incapacitated to a degree that makes it impossible for him to perform the duties of his position, or who is quarantined by a physician because he has been exposed to a contagious disease."

"In my opinion," said Attorney Clark, "the above precludes the payment of sick leave pay to any employe who sustains an injury or sickness within the scope of his employment and therefore becomes eligible for Workmen's Compensation benefits."

In a verbal ruling, Attorney Clark pointed out that employes of county institutions and the roads department are paid for seven holidays even if the individual is on vacation or sick leave.

Ryan Indicted On Charge Of Tax Evasion

$53,000 Is Cited In U.S. Indictment

BALTIMORE (AP) — A charge of evading more than $53,000 in federal income taxes for 1953-56 was handed down Tuesday against Edward J. Ryan, prominent Cumberland and Frostburg attorney, and one-time Democratic congressional nominee.

A federal grand jury here indicted the 66-year-old Ryan on four counts of filing false joint tax returns for himself and his wife. The indictment said Ryan had listed income of $96,405.98 for the four years and federal income taxes of $26,804.67.

Actually, said the jury, he had an income of $195,941.23 on which the taxes should have been $80,047.90. The total amount of evasion claimed was $53,243.23.

The indictment was filed in U.S. District Court and bond of $1,000 was posted by Ryan. Arraignment was to be set later.

Ryan was born in Allegany County and has practiced law there some 44 years. He studied at public and private schools in Frostburg and Cumberland and was admitted to the bar in 1916.

He lost the 1954 Sixth District congressional election by only 3,898 votes to Republican DeWitt S. Hyde of Bethesda. The totals were 69,658 to 65,760.

Ryan ran unsuccessfully for the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court bench in 1950. He has served on the Allegany County Board of Education and is past president of the County Bar Assn., and has been in other civic activities.

The grand jury indictment listed the following counts of federal tax evasion against Ryan:

1953 - filed returns showing income of $19,116.78 and taxes of $4,882.58, whereas the figures should have been $58,490.43 and $27,011.26;

1954 — filed returns showing income of $19,079.75 and taxes of $4,770.17, whereas the figures should have been $34,280.27 and $11,343.19;

1955 — filed returns showing income of $26,010.19 and taxes of $7,111.00, whereas the figures should have been $62,937.45 and $27,666.28;

1956 — filed returns showing income of $32,199.26 and taxes of $10,040.92, whereas the figures should have been $40,233.08 and $14,027.17.

The Cumberland News learned yesterday that Mr. Ryan will be represented in this case by William C. Walsh and W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland and by Clyde Y. Morris of Baltimore. When contacted, Mr. Walsh and Mr. Cobey advised that a plea of not guilty will be entered on behalf of Mr. Ryan.

The industry, he added, is still a growing one, and predicted that Kelly will grow with it.

He said the most vital decision Mr. Burke made was that Kelly was to operate as an independent firm with its own mission.

F. T. Bell, personnel manager, gave the invocation at the dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

M. T. Powers, vice president in charge of sales, served as toastmaster and introduced O. R. Schierenback and B. O. Shaffer, the oldest staff and worker employes of the Kelly organization.

George B. Newman, Kelly president, said Mr. Burke, in his years at Kelly, increased sales more than 15 times and said the objective of those who will carry on his work is not only to keep Kelly important within the industry but to strengthen its position to where Kelly will be the strongest, other than major companies.

Is Brightest Year

He said 1959 will be the brightest year in Kelly's history and that the future of Kelly lies in producing top quality goods at the lowest possible prices and developing Kelly people who are more capable than its competition.

To Mr. Burke he said, "Relax, enjoy yourself."

The plaintiff alleges the bus was stopped on the paved surface of the highway and a motorist following crashed into the rear of the bus.

Linn said he suffered injuries to his back and nervous shock. He states he incurred medical and hospital bills as a result of the bus-car accident.

The bus company dismissed a claim against Richard C. Morris, city, who was the driver of the car which crashed into the bus. The case was dismissed on Monday this week.

Demos Open First Full Time State Office

BALTIMORE (AP) — The year-'round headquarters of Maryland's Democratic State Central Committee officially opened for business Tuesday.

On hand for the final unpacking of literature, stationery and other paraphernalia were Committee Chairman Thomas B. Finan and Treasurer David Hume.

They helped apply the finishing touches to the equipping of the two-room office suite on the third floor of the Hotel Emerson, where a two-member permanent staff has been on duty for more than three weeks.

The full-time employes at the headquarters are Executive Secretary Carl R. Tuvin, 23-year-old graduate of Goddard College, Vt., and Miss Jane Carr, the headquarters secretary. Miss Carr, a pert, blue-eyed brownette, is a former Annapolis secretary of Odell M. Smith, aide to Gov. Tawes.

With the opening of its spanking-new layout within non-electioneering distance of Republican headquarters in a nearby office building, the Maryland Democratic Pary lost its distinction as one of only three in the nation without a permanent campaign base. The others are Wyoming and Montana.

Hume said the Maryland offices, modest by comparison with the 20-member staff in Pennsylvania and 35-member team manning the New York headquarters, had been set up on an annual budget of $25,000.

"And we're keeping track of everything, right down to the last drinking cup," he added.

Finan announced the appointment of Harry T. Gross of Baltimore, longtime party legal adviser, as committee counsel.

Other committee officials include Mrs. E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery County, co-chairman; Mrs. Ruby Hahn of Frederick, vice chairman in charge of women's groups; Mrs. Ann Brown, Montgomery County, vice chairman in charge of registration; James P. Mause, Frederick, vice chairman representing Young Democrats, and Mrs. Ann Ningard, Baltimore, in charge of political education.

Finan said E. Stuart Bushong, Washington County, had been elected Western Maryland regional chairman; Mrs. Helen Baumgartner, Oakland, women's regional chairman, and Mrs. Areal W. Moore of Baltimore, secretary to the committee.

Sacred Heart Gives Thanks To Red Cross

Sacred Heart Hospital last night expressed its gratitude to Red Cross officials and police organizations in two states for their quick efforts in securing blood during two emergencies at the local institution last week.

The hospital said certain types of blood were needed last week on two separate occasions and none was available at any of the other hospitals in the area.

Officials at the local Red Cross chapter were notified of the emergencies and they in turn called the regional blood bank in Johnstown, Pa., requesting the necessary blood.

A series of relays by four different police groups brought the blood to the local hospital within a two-hour period that the request was made by Sacred Heart Hospital.

The blood was taken from the blood bank by the Johnstown City Police and they delivered it to a police car of the Windber (Pa.) City Police. They relayed the blood to a Pennsylvania State Police cruiser who then turned the blood over to a Maryland State Police car, which delivered it to the hospital.

Hospital officials said the quick responses to the two requests for blood was a "wonderful service" to the individuals who needed the blood, since both requests were made in the middle of the night.

Hospital officials also expressed their thanks to two local men who came to the institution the two nights to donate their blood.

Sick Leave Pay Point Is Clarified

County Attorney Gives Opinion

Sick leave pay for Allegany County employes has been clarified by Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Board of Commissioners, in a letter to Harry T. Skelly, supervisor of county roads, who sought the information.

Mr. Skelly requested an opinion as to whether or not a county employe who sustains an injury during the course of his employment may obtain sick leave pay in addition to any compensation that may be paid him under Workmen's Compensation laws.

In his reply to Mr. Skelly, the attorney said that payment of sick leave is governed by Section V, B, of the rules and regulations of the Civil Service Commission of Allegany County.

The sub-section referred to is as follows:

"Sick leave is paid leave that may be granted to each eligible employe, who by reason of sickness or injury, outside of the scope of his employment, becomes incapacitated to a degree that makes it impossible for him to perform the duties of his position, or who is quarantined by a physician because he has been exposed to a contagious disease."

"In my opinion," said Attorney Clark, "the above precludes the payment of sick leave pay to any employe who sustains an injury or sickness within the scope of his employment and therefore becomes eligible for Workmen's Compensation benefits."

In a verbal ruling, Attorney Clark pointed out that employes of county institutions and the roads department are paid for seven hoildays even if the individual is on vacation or sick leave.

Ryan Indicted On Charge Of Tax Evasion

$53,000 Is Cited In U.S. Indictment

BALTIMORE (AP) — A charge of evading more than $53,000 in federal income taxes for 1953-56 was handed down Tuesday against Edward J. Ryan, prominent Cumberland and Frostburg attorney, and one-time Democratic congressional nominee.

A federal grand jury here indicted the 66-year-old Ryan on four counts of filing false joint tax returns for himself and his wife. The indictment said Ryan had listed income of $96,405.98 for the four years and federal income taxes of $26,804.67.

Actually, said the jury, he had an income of $195,941.23 on which the taxes should have been $80,047.90. The total amount of evasion claimed was $53,243.23.

The indictment was filed in U.S. District Court and bond of $1,000 was posted by Ryan. Arraignment was to be set later.

Ryan was born in Allegany County and has practiced law there some 44 years. He studied at public and private schools in Frostburg and Cumberland and was admitted to the bar in 1916.

He lost the 1954 Sixth District congressional election by only 3,898 votes to Republican DeWitt S. Hyde of Bethesda. The totals were 69,658 to 65,760.

Ryan ran unsuccessfully for the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court bench in 1950. He has served on the Allegany County Board of Education and is past president of the County Bar Assn., and has been in other civic activities.

The grand jury indictment listed the following counts of federal tax evasion against Ryan:

1953 - filed returns showing income of $19,116.78 and taxes of $4,882.58, whereas the figures should have been $58,490.43 and $27,011.26;

1954 — filed returns showing income of $19,079.75 and taxes of $4,770.17, whereas the figures should have been $34,280.27 and $11,343.19;

1955 — filed returns showing income of $26,010.19 and taxes of $7,111.00, whereas the figures should have been $62,937.45 and $27,666.28;

1956 — filed returns showing income of $32,199.26 and taxes of $10,040.92, whereas the figures should have been $40,233.08 and $14,027.17.

The Cumberland News learned yesterday that Mr. Ryan will be represented in this case by William C. Walsh and W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland and by Clyde Y. Morris of Baltimore. When contacted, Mr. Walsh and Mr. Cobey advised that a plea of not guilty will be entered on behalf of Mr. Ryan.
